Another marijuana investigation in Hawthorne by the Passaic County Prosecutor's Office resulted in the arrest of 21-year-old Vincenzo Mogliano on Thursday, May 9th, for the sale and possession of marijuana. The incident took place on the 3rd floor of 467 Maple Avenue at about 3:00 a.m. on March 21st, immediately following his alleged illegal transaction with an undercover detective.

Engineering study ordered:

Industrial building condemned after cave-in Hawthorne's building department is conducting the results of an engineering study at the Graceline Properties, an industrial complex located on Waverley Road, to determine the condition of the building before it was removed from service. The building was originally constructed in 1959 and has been in use as a light manufacturing facility for the past 5 years. The analysis was ordered by Fred Barber, the town's engineering director, and Virginia Barber, the building department administrator.

The inspection of building 3 on March 29th revealed extensive damage to the structure. The building was condemned due to structural concerns, and the demolition process is expected to be completed within the coming weeks. The building, which is owned by Hawthorne Realty, has been subject to multiple inspections over the years due to issues with the roof and structural integrity. The building is adjacent to a residential area and was closed to the public for safety reasons.

What about credit for energy savers?

Dear editor,

I believe that in order to encourage conservation, consumers should be given energy credits that can be used for energy-related goods and services. These credits could be used for anything from energy-efficient appliances to home insulation. It would be a great way to save money and help the environment.

Two die in Haledon fire

By Tom McGlynn Dixon

Two bodies were found dead in a Haledon fire on the afternoon of March 27. The fire, which started in a bedroom of a house on Fourth Avenue, was quickly extinguished by the Haledon Fire Department, but the two victims were found dead in the burning room. The cause of the fire was under investigation at the time of the report.

Haledon policemen said they were called to the scene at 1:30 p.m. to find the house already on fire. The flames were quickly extinguished, and the bodies of the victims were removed to the morgue.

The victims were identified by Haledon PD as Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, who lived at the address. The couple had been married for 30 years and were well known in the community.

Haledon Police Chief John O'Brien said the cause of the fire was being investigated by the New Jersey State Fire Commission.

Mike Carr, 37, of Haledon, was arrested and charged with second-degree murder in connection with the fire.

The couple's three children, ages 8, 10, and 12, were found unharmed in the basement of the house.

The couple's children were taken into protective custody by the Passaic County Department of Children and Family Services. The children will be placed with relatives or foster homes, according to the department.

Mike Carr, 37, of Haledon, is charged with murder in connection with the fire. He is being held without bail in the Passaic County Jail.

Carr has a criminal history and was previously convicted of armed robbery.

The incident is being investigated by the New Jersey State Fire Commission. The agency is conducting an investigation to determine the cause of the fire.

In a statement, the family said they were shocked and saddened by the loss of their loved ones. The family thanked the emergency responders for their efforts in saving the children.

Attorney fights wife's speeding ticket

Mr. Doner and his wife were out for a drive in his Lincoln Continental. While traveling at a speed of 60 mph, a police officer pulled them over and gave Mrs. Doner a ticket for speeding. The officer stated that he had clocked her at 65 mph on a 30 mph speed limit. Mrs. Doner, a lawyer by profession, decided to fight the ticket. She hired a local attorney and presented her case to the judge. The judge agreed with Mrs. Doner, stating that the officer's radar gun was not accurate enough to justify the speeding ticket. Mrs. Doner was exonerated and the ticket was dismissed.

Broken windows and windshields continue

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were driving home from a family reunion when they were rear-ended by a drunk driver. The impact caused severe damage to their car, including broken windows and a cracked windshield. The Johnsons contacted their insurance company, who promised to cover the repairs. However, the process was slow and complicated, and the Johnsons were frustrated with the lack of progress. They decided to hire a lawyer to represent them in a lawsuit against the drunk driver.

editorial
for the week of April 10th

Now that we’ve had about two weeks to wrestle with the 1800s census forms, I think we can see that the mid-to-late 1800s were very much like the modern era in that people were interested in knowing the numbers. With the advent of the census forms just prior to the Eastern and Western states, many of us were excluded from the forms with the real reason that they give us in later days. Although the forms were due back on April 1st, it’s not too late to get your own. If the questions are not repeated many times, census takers must come for them. This will add to the cost of the forms, but we are only going to have to pay for the ones that we don’t get here.

The back-front method, a relatively new census-taking technique, would allow us to pay at least $800 million if all households were to pay completely online. When the census deadline is extended, we will have a chance to ensure that our response rate is adequate for the completeness of the information. One reason is the census deadline will be set as a basis for the completeness of each household in the House of Representatives as well as for providing federal funding to communities.

The 1890 census schedules will yield a comprehensive, statistical overview of the nation, and of every state, county and community. It is clear that this step of each census has or is allowing us to help our country.

Keep parkland the way it is

Dear Editor,

It is with a heavy heart that we write to you today, as we are about to witness the destruction of another park. This time, it is the beloved Paradise Park, located in our community. The city council, in their infinite wisdom, has decided to raze this cherished space and replace it with a high-rise apartment complex. We urge you to join us in opposing this decision and to demand that the city council respect the wishes of the community by preserving this beautiful park.

The current proposal to build a high-rise apartment complex on the site of Paradise Park is not only a violation of the city's zoning laws, but it is also a disregard for the history and culture of our neighborhood. Paradise Park has been a haven for residents and visitors alike, providing a space for recreation, relaxation, and community events. It is a place where families come to relax, where friends gather to enjoy the outdoors, and where our children learn about the importance of nature and sustainability.

We implore the city council to reconsider their decision and to work with the community to find a solution that respects the needs of both the residents and the business owners. We urge them to consider options such as improving the existing facilities, creating a community garden, or even expanding the park to include additional green space.

Thank you for your attention to this matter. We look forward to your support in our efforts to save Paradise Park.

Sincerely,

The positive side of youth

When I think of the word "youth," I think of a time of freedom, exploration, and growth. It is a period of life when we are able to make our own decisions and take risks without fear of judgment. For many, this is a time of discovery, of trying new things, and of learning from our mistakes.

The world today is vastly different from what it was when we were young. Technology has advanced exponentially, and we have access to more information than ever before. We are able to connect with people from all over the world and share our ideas and experiences with others.

However, despite the challenges that youth face today, there are also many positive aspects to consider. Youth are often full of energy and enthusiasm, and they are quick to adapt to new situations. They are also more open to different perspectives and ideas, and they are more likely to question authority and seek out new solutions.

In conclusion, while youth may face many challenges, there are also many positive aspects to consider. It is important for us to support and encourage our young people, and to work to create a world where they can thrive and reach their full potential.

Sincerely,

Citizen's complaint dismissed as 'frivolous'

by Anne Hoffman

April 17, 1980
The Hawthorne Press

A woman's complaint that she was the victim of a sex crime was dismissed as "frivolous" by the police of the city of Hawthorne, according to the Hawthorne Press.

In a story titled "under the gavel," the newspaper reported that the woman, who was not named, had filed a complaint with the police in response to an incident that took place in a residential area.

The woman alleged that she was assaulted by several individuals, who she said were driving under the influence of alcohol.

The police department denied the woman's claims, stating that there was insufficient evidence to support her allegations.

The story was published on page 5 of the April 17, 1980, issue of the Hawthorne Press.

Who's to say the schools can do a better job in sex education?

Now that New Jersey has become the third state in the nation to mandate family life education, the issue of sex education is gaining momentum in our schools.

But despite the high school in which we live, there is still much work to be done. The essential premise of family life education is that it is a curriculum designed to help students prepare for marriage, family, and the social responsibilities that come with these roles. However, many students are not prepared for this adventure, and the skills they need to succeed in these areas are often not taught in school.

Each school should be setting up their own curriculum to meet the needs of their community and ensure that all students are prepared for the responsibilities of family life. This can be achieved through the cooperation of parents, teachers, and students.

Grateful to organized sports volunteers

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my appreciation to the organized sports volunteers who make our sports programs possible. Without their dedication and hard work, our students would not have the top-notch athletic programs that we enjoy today.

I would like to extend a special thank you to my coach, Mr. Smith, who has been with the women's basketball team for many years.

Sincerely,

Dear Editor,

I wish to thank the police officers who stopped a traffic jam on my way to school and helped me find my way to work. They were kind and patient, and I am very grateful for their assistance.

Military force is not the solution to deterring the Soviets

In the wake of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, there is a strong demand for global military action, with many wondering if the answer lies in increased military spending or a more measured approach.

Some argue that military force is the necessary tool to deter aggression, while others believe that diplomatic solutions or economic pressure may be more effective.

In the end, the decision to use military force should be based on a careful examination of the situation and the goals of the intervention.

Johnstone and Miller: The Mutt and Jeff of the New York Rangers

By Pat Capu

Both were considered to be the best in the NHL, each having scored more points than the other. Yet, their achievements were overshadowed by their off-ice antics and sometimes controversial on-ice behavior.

The Mutt and Jeff of the New York Rangers.

While the Rangers' success is the most part due to their high-scoring forwards, it is Johnstone and Miller that truly defined the team's identity. Their chemistry on the ice and camaraderie outside the rink were legendary.

At the time of their signing, Johnstone was the most popular player in New York and Miller was considered the best player in the NHL. Together, they formed an unstoppable force that scared opponents and thrilled fans alike.

A popular saying was, "When Johnstone and Miller are together, we'll have the best back-up in the league." This proved true as the Rangers went on to win consecutive Stanley Cups with the duo leading the charge.

Johnstone responded to the additional pressure and excelled in games that mattered most. In both rounds against the Philadelphia Flyers in the 1941 and 1942 finals, Johnstone was a rock, scoring a goal in every game and earning two game-winning goals in the sixth game of the series.

In 1942, he scored 20 points in 30 games and was voted into the NHL All-Star team for the third consecutive year. His contributions were instrumental in the Rangers' third consecutive championship.

Hawthorne Firm celebrates 10th anniversary

Judd Hamlin Service Corp.
96 Fifth Avenue, Hawthorne 427-1154 - 427-8139

For the past 10 years, the Judd Hamlin Service Corp., 96 Fifth Avenue, has been achieving success through attention. In 1986, Judd Hamlin was out of work and not yet ready to retire, so with 13 years experience in the punch card manufacturing business, he began making a living by buying and selling parts for punch card manufacturing equipment.

He began by operating out of the trunk of his car, filling the needs of manufacturers who needed parts replaced.

A year later, he had opened a sales office at 20 Fourth Avenue in Hawthorne and incorporated the business under the name The Judd Hamlin Service Corp. By January 1971, the operation was moved to the front portion of the Fifth Avenue building where it began to do its own manufacturing.

With the growth of the computer industry and the expansion of magnetic tape and now, toward floppy disk systems, there are no longer any more companies that manufacture machines to make punch card equipment. However, there are some 20 companies in the United States that use this machinery and need a source that can provide replacements or custom make parts to keep their equipment operating.

Hamlin's company fills this need and currently services about 30 percent of perplexity hardware manufacturers for punch card equipment in the U.S. plus three in eight foreign countries. Today, the service occupies about 10,000 square feet and has a complete machine shop, which provides a wide range of services. There is also an impressive display of memorabilia in the office. On display, Hamlin has an old photo which shows the office back in the day.

Hamlin was recently cited in the business section of the New York Times for the manner in which he founded the company.

The company prides itself on the diversity it can provide. Parts can be supplied off the shelf in about 50 minutes from a very extensive spare parts inventory. Parts can also be custom-made.

"Our company is the only one in the world that provides this 100 percent," says Hamlin about the firm he founded. "We're small enough to make a comfortable living here in this industry." Punch cards are still used for highway toll collection, utility bills and advertising coupons. This billion dollar worldwide industry is expected to last around for another 20 years.

Hamlin's company operates under Hamlin by IBM, which is a single largest customer. There are six full-time employees. His wife Gladys is the company president. Ted Pastur, a qualified machinist who has been with the firm for three and a half years, is the general manager in charge of production. He has trained all the employees who work in the shop. In addition, he serves as vice president in charge of production and sits on the Board of Directors.

Pawley's Plan...
Let’s improve our environment on the local level

Ten years ago, on April 22, 1970, a coalition of citizens concerned with America’s worsening environment, modeled the people of the nation into action and started the celebration of Earth Day.

This past decade has seen the passage of legislation in just about every state of this environment’s existence. The movement has tried to make people’s lives less destructive and less dependent upon the natural environment.

In keeping with this environmental conservation, we believe there is a need to improve the environment in our community.

Let us improve our environment on the local level.

Letters to the editor

Census enumerator well received

In the Laurel Room of the Hawthorne Public Library, April 22, 1980

Dear editor:

As you may remember, I was the only person who showed up at the census box last year to ask for the distribution list. I was told that the census boxes were distributed only to the libraries and that the list was not available. I would like to know if the census boxes are being distributed this year.

Sincerely, Charles J. Smith

A note of thanks

Dear editor:

I would like to thank all the staff for their help and advice during my tenure here. I am now employed at home. All the skills and advice will be used.

Sincerely, Gaynor Capello

ups and downs

Thumbs Up

1. The Hawthorne U-1 League has been successful in its efforts to organize a team for the company’s baseball game. This is a great opportunity for the employees to enjoy a friendly game.

2. The Hawthorne Tennis Club has announced that it will be holding a tournament on Saturday, May 1st. The event will feature singles and doubles, and prizes will be awarded to the winners.

3. The Hawthorne Public Library has added a new section to its collection, featuring books on the environment and sustainability. This is a welcome addition to the library’s offerings.

Thumbs Down

1. The Hawthorne School Board has decided to cut the budget for the arts program, leading to the cancellation of several popular events. This is a disappointing decision, as these events provide important opportunities for students to develop their talents.

2. The Hawthorne Chamber of Commerce has decided to cancel its annual business expo due to financial constraints. This is a setback for local businesses, as the expo provides a valuable networking opportunity.

3. The Hawthorne Council has voted to increase taxes by 5%, which will have a significant impact on local residents. This decision is concerning, as it will put an additional burden on families and businesses.
