Zoning hearing sounded like a municipal court case:

Fences - more than physical barriers

When there are several homes painted in a similar color scheme, the homeowner may feel his house is the most conspicuous of all. The same was true in a hearing before the Board of Adjustment last week, when a number of residents opposed the issuance of a certificate of occupancy for a new house at 104 South Avenue, to be owned by F. J. Fawcett, Jr., and his wife, Mrs. F. J. Fawcett, Jr.

Opponents claimed that the fence was an eyesore, and that it would be a detriment to the neighborhood. They also alleged that the fence was too high and too long, and that it would obstruct the view from the street.

Stipulation included by 'A more palatable green'

The question of the fence was brought up by the developer, who offered to build a more aesthetically pleasing fence if the board agreed to the issuance of the certificate of occupancy.

"It is not a spite fence" said Mr. Fawcett, who explained that the fence was built to protect his property from the noise and pollution of the nearby highway. He also pointed out that the fence was painted in a neutral color, which would blend in with the surroundings.

"I would not put up a fence if there had been no protest," Mr. Fawcett added. "I built the fence to protect my property and my family from the noise and pollution of the highway."

Not much left of the Goffle Park ponds

Officials of Passaic County Park Commission are aware of the need for developing a new park at Goffle Brook, but for more than a month they have been unable to get the necessary permits.

Ronald E. Smith, assistant director of the commission, said the permits were necessary to move forward with the project.

"We need permits to move forward with the project," Mr. Smith said. "We have been working on this for more than a month, but we have been unable to get the necessary permits."

Road Board from development site

Goffle Brook has experienced some development in recent years, but the area remains relatively undeveloped. The development of Goffle Brook would provide much-needed open space for residents of the area.

A survey of the Goffle Brook area was conducted by the NJ Department of Environmental Protection, which recommended the development of a park in the area.

"A survey of the area was conducted by the NJ Department of Environmental Protection," Mr. Smith said. "They recommended the development of a park in the area."

The death penalty as a deterrent

In view of the recent news stories of the 44 Cali flow and others like him who have imposed the maximum penalty, we feel that the death penalty should be reinstated in New Jersey.

In any other state, at least it might serve as a deterrent to criminals who murder without regard to the victim's age, sex and worse — their livelihood. "Lions of Steel" will escape an imposition of death in New York, even though he has already murdered 6 and wounded 7. New York Governor Carey has said he will veto the death penalty when it comes across his desk.

How can we be? As far as New Jersey is concerned, the death penalty is just a way. The trial of
A. 1.444 passed the N. J. State Assembly on February 23, 1976, and is currently in the State Senate Judiciary Committee. Assembleman Robert freshman thinks the death penalty will be passed in New Jersey. Governor Byrne has indicated he will veto the death penalty unless it is part of the repealing of the state parole code. But I think we should give this veto some thought.

Personally, I'm in favor of imposing the death delay, "I'm for it and I voted for it in the assembly. I don't think the death penalty can be called

The value of the death penalty is considered in the context of crime and the desire for justice.

An unusual flight in a 'Breezy' plane

Thursday, August 3, 1972

By William E. Davis

The title is a bit 'memoirish", yet it is aptly
w"n. "An unusual flight in a 'Breezy' plane"
"tells the story of a flight in a small, yet uncommonly powered aircraft. The author visits a field where a small plane is grounded and describes it as "a very nice little plane.
"It's a real 'Breezy' plane, with a small engine and a sip-resistant top."

The flight takes place in a small airport, and the author notes the peculiar design of the aircraft, which is described as "an unusual plane."

The author mentions that the plane has a very high and low wing, which he describes as
"a very nice feature."

The author also describes the flight as "very enjoyable," and notes that it is "an unusual flight in a 'Breezy' plane."

It's not unusual to expect America from the Drowsy people who dream. More of the people and their transgressions to the land and the sea. But few have been more poetic than the Drowsy people. They are the ones who dream and who write about the things they see. They are the ones who make the world go around. Their dreams are the ones that make the world go around. They are the ones who make the world go around. They are the ones who make the world go around.

America: It's About Trying

A former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, John Q. Gormley, wrote about America in the Drowsy people. He said, "The Drowsy people are the ones who dream and who write about the things they see. They are the ones who make the world go around. Their dreams are the ones that make the world go around. Seniors dinner-dance a great success

The annual dinner-dance at the Odaiba Park Hotel, with a capacity of 700, was a resounding success. The event was organized by the Senior Citizens Club of Hawthorne, a group that aims to bring together senior citizens for social and cultural activities.

The dance featured a live band, a delicious buffet, and a raffle with many exciting prizes. Attendees enjoyed the lively atmosphere and the opportunity to meet new people. The club's goal is to provide a platform for seniors to connect and celebrate their shared experiences.

The club plans to hold similar events in the future, and they encourage more seniors to participate. They believe that such gatherings are essential in fostering a sense of community and belonging among older adults. The next event is scheduled for October, and interested members are already preparing for it.

Sandfort: 'Heresy to call it ice cream'

"Adoption of new federal standards for ice cream would also be followed by changes in other food categories. But while it would be the first for ice cream it wouldn't be the last."

-Sandfort, Executive Director of the International Dairy Federation and Campaigner for Dairy, at the American Dairy Association press conference.

Sandfort, a veteran of dairy activism, said the proposed new standards would be a "heresy" for the dairy industry to change its products.

"The proposed standards for ice cream would not only change the taste and texture of the food, but also its nutritional value," he said. "We are concerned that these changes could lead to a decline in the popularity of ice cream as a healthy food option."

The proposed standards, which are expected to be finalized in the fall, would require ice cream to contain at least 8% milk fat and 12% milk solids. This would significantly increase the price of ice cream, according to Sandfort, who also noted that the changes would affect small creameries and dairy farms.

"We are concerned that these changes will hurt small businesses and family farms," he said. "We believe that ice cream should be a healthy and affordable food option for everyone."
Summer burglaries

Summer is a favorite time for burglars. Property owners can become lazy about securing homes and businesses. More often than not, a common goal of burglars is theft of personal property and theft of vehicles. In order to protect your home and your property, it is important to keep your home secure and vigilant at all times.

The Unholy Alliance

By John W. Gardner

A recent increase in the rate of burglaries in our neighborhood has led to an increase in the rate of theft of personal property. Many property owners have reported loss of valuables, such as jewelry, electronics, and furniture. The increase in theft has led to an increase in the cost of insurance and has caused a decrease in property values.

Legitimate spital patrons have a right to enjoy the services of their local bars and restaurants, and they should be protected from theft. The increase in theft has also led to an increase in the cost of police protection and an increase in the number of police officers needed to patrol the area.

The Unholy Alliance has been created to address the issue of theft in our neighborhood. This group is made up of residents who are committed to protecting their homes and their property. They have established a network of volunteers who are willing to patrol the area and to report any suspicious activity.

The Unholy Alliance is working with local law enforcement agencies to ensure that property owners are protected from theft. They are working to increase the visibility of police officers in the area and to increase the presence of security cameras in the area.

The Unholy Alliance is a powerful force in the fight against theft. They are determined to protect the homes and property of their neighbors. They are committed to making our neighborhood a safe and secure place to live.
Summer recreation concludes today

The last day of summer programs at the Hawthorne Park District will be held this week. Students from kindergarten to third grade are planned to attend the swimming classes at the Hawthorne Pool this week. The district has scheduled 100 events for children this summer. Letters to the Editor

Department of Mental Health of Fannin County

P.O. Box 176

Lakewold, N.J.

Dear Editor:

I want to urge my readers to support the proposals of Mr. A. B. Hues in the present budget to the Board of Education. Mr. Hues is an important member of the community, and his ideas have been developed and presented in a clear and concise manner. Mr. Hues believes that education is a right for all children, and he wants to see the board move forward with his ideas. I urge you to support Mr. Hues and his proposals in the coming months.

Sincerely,
