Proposals would curtail local bus service

The service in the borough will be drastically curtailed if a proposed NJ Transit is adopted by the city. The Passaic County bus, which now leaves from the Mountain Avenue and Passaic Park intersection, is to begin on Main Avenue, the new route. The AJ Transit, which serves the portion of Passaic Park bus, will not run anymore due to the proposed changes. The AJ Transit, which serves the portion of Passaic Park bus, will not run anymore due to the proposed changes.

According to James Scipion, assistant transportation planner for the Passaic County Board of Chosen Freeholders, several changes have been made to the service. The proposed changes are to be effective in the county of 10 years. In the future, new changes may be made. More of the service is discussed in the current issue.

The new route is to be made near more accessible. There will be three stops added to the current route of the service, and a new route with one stop is to be added. Is it fair to have a police chief work for sergeant's pay?

Proper pay — Glenda Schuttler argue that a police chief should not be paid a lower salary than a sergeant. She believes that police chiefs should be paid a salary comparable to their rank and responsibilities. She suggests that the current pay structure is unfair and demotivates officers. The chief of police should be treated as a professional leader and not just an administrative officer.

Veterans' General Hospital — Glenda Schuttler comments on the situation at Veterans' General Hospital. She notes that the hospital is facing financial difficulties and suggests that solutions should be found to ensure its continued operation.

The future of public safety — Glenda Schuttler discusses the future of public safety. She points out that funding for police departments is critical and that officers need to be adequately compensated to perform their duties effectively.

Democrats hope to break 80-year tradition

North Dakota — Democratic candidates for mayor and council in Williston are facing a key issue in their campaign: whether to continue the city’s tradition of supporting the Republican Party. Williston has been a Democratic stronghold for the past 80 years, but this year’s candidates are hoping to change that trend.

Mike Johnson, the Democratic candidate for mayor, believes that the city’s residents are ready for a change. "We’ve been in a rut for a long time," he said. "I believe Williston is ready for a new direction." Johnson has promised to prioritize issues such as affordable housing and better public transportation.

Meanwhile, the Republican candidate, John Smith, is urging voters to continue supporting the party. "We’ve been in power for 80 years," he said. "We’ve got a proven record of accomplishment." Smith has promised to continue supporting the city’s police department and local businesses.

"Wisenfeld has been in power for too long, and it’s time for a new leader." Johnson has announced his intention to run against Wisenfeld in the upcoming election.

EXXON hearing continued to September 28

As one deadline expired, another was set.

By John DeFrisco

An agreement between the Hackensack Board of Adjustment and the town resulted in a hearing on whether to allow the Exxon Corporation to expand and add to its existing tank farm located on the northeast corner of the intersection of Union Avenue and Lincoln Street.

The decision to allow the expansion to go forward was made after the board reviewed the proposal presented by Exxon and the town.

The expansion plan includes the construction of new tanks, an increase in the size of the existing tanks, and the addition of new facilities to the existing tank farm.

The town's decision was made after a series of hearings and public meetings, during which the community was given the opportunity to voice their concerns.

Speaking up — a way to make government more responsive

It was ironic that on the day after the shooting at Columbine High School, a person might have to take time to spare with three words to express their concern to the county's elected officials.

The Columbine shootings remind us that we cannot take political actions for granted. They remind us that we cannot just sit back and hope that things will get better on their own. We must speak up and demand change.

Making government more responsive is not just about making decisions. It's about making sure that people feel heard and valued.

We need to make sure that our elected officials are listening to us.

Wildlife Federation calls for removal of Secretary of Interior James Watt

There is a need to take action on the current administration's policies on wildlife and the environment. This is not just about wildlife, it's about the future of our planet.

It is critical that we speak up and demand change.

North Haledon couple wins custody battle for now

By Joe DiPalma
North Haledon—The long waited court decision, which has been the subject of an intense community debate for over 11 months, will now enable a North Haledon couple to maintain joint custody of their two children. According to Superior Court Judge Howard M. Berliner who ruled in favor of the couple, the children will remain with them until they reach the age of 18.

The court case, which began in the summer of 1981, centered on a dispute over the custody of the couple’s two children, a boy, age 7, and a girl, age 4. The couple, who have been married for five years, had been together for seven years. The couple had previously lived in North Haledon for three years but moved to New Jersey in 1980.

The couple’s decision to move to New Jersey was based on the fact that they felt the state offered better opportunities for their children. However, their decision was met with opposition from the children’s relatives, who live in North Haledon.

The court case was fought by both sides, with the couple and their relatives each presenting their own arguments. The court case was a long and difficult one, with both sides presenting their case for over a year.

The court ruled in favor of the couple, stating that they should retain custody of their children until they reach the age of 18. The court also noted that the children would remain in the area and that their education would continue to be provided by the North Haledon School District.

The couple, who are both working professionals, have been involved in the community for many years and have been active in various community organizations. They are both involved in the local Chamber of Commerce and have been active in various political campaigns.

Mother stabbed, son hangs himself:

Murder-suicide at 135 Fourth Ave.

What was once a 25-year-old man left his mother and then hanged himself.

It was a tragic day in the history of the Hawthorne Village. The police received a call at 135 Fourth Avenue, near the site of a recent murder-suicide. When they arrived, they found a 25-year-old man and his mother dead. The man had stabbed his mother and then hung himself.

The police believe that the murder-suicide was a result of domestic violence. The victim's brother, who was at the scene, told the police that the two had been arguing earlier in the day. The brother also said that the victim had threatened to kill his mother and then himself.

The victim's mother, who was also killed, had been reported missing earlier in the day. The police had received several reports of a man seen in the area, and they believe that he was the person who killed the woman.

The investigation is ongoing, and the police are looking for anyone who may have information about the case. Anyone with information is urged to contact the police immediately.

The potential for violence exists here as well as anywhere else

Last week's murder outside has alerted New haven residents to the reality that our peaceful life is not immune to the wave of violence that threatens today's society.

Violent incidents are commonplace for our daily newspapers, but for a worry in a monthly (or even less), murder stories are an almost never appearance.

The last time we enjoyed a murder change in New Haven was an incident at a funeral home when a light between two bodies resulted in the death of one of the trio.

In 1973, there was a murder incident in North Haven involving a hus-bored and wife who lived on 40-Allen Avenue. The last time a murder incident occurred in the borough was

November 1984. The incident followed a Thanksgiving dinner quarrel between a husband and wife in the living room of their home. The husband had just returned from a building housing trip when the argument began. He said that his wife and then the in-laws.

We're fortunate to live in a community where we can feel safe and free from the threats that beset so many in TV news.

However, the normal security shouldn't be taken for granted.

Last Friday's tragedy reminds us that the potential for violence exists here, as anywhere else.

 Violence is not just a product of any environment. Human nature can't be violent. It is people who become enraged and react with violence to the pressures of society.

With increased use of drugs and alcohol and all types of entertainment that dramatizeviolence, we're not even immune to the horrors of modern day.

That's why the incident this recent murder-sides street, it's this home. The people involved are friends or acquaintances. They're not to a3bsent in a story where such a tragedy is about to happen.

Emergency awards approved for violent crimes compensation

Legislation that shows the state's Violence Crimes Compensation Board to fund emergency medical or funeral expenses was signed into law by Gov. Granha.

The legislation, sponsored by Assemblyman John C. Hooper (D-34) and the Senate Crime Victims Compensation Board, is expected to pass both branches of the state legislature.

The measure was endorsed by the New Haven Chamber of Commerce and by the Civic Union.

Assemblyman Hooper, who introduced the measure, said the measure would be to make funding available to victims of violent crime.

The measure would allow for up to $2,500 maximum payments to victims of violent crime as much as an increasing sum as the amount of the victim's medical or funeral expenses.

During the year, the board would be able to make payments to victims of violent crime as much as an increasing sum as the amount of the victim's medical or funeral expenses.

Financial crunch requires borrowing

North Haledon—Continuing its record of low taxes, the borough has set aside $1.5 million in the current budget to finance capital improvements and other needs.

The budget is designed to help the borough maintain its low taxes, according to Borough Manager Frank Henry, who said the budget was prepared to provide for "sustained growth, but not overgrowth." The borough has a population of about 13,000.

The Hawthorne School Board is purchasing an in-house computer system for use in the district. The system is expected to be in place by the start of the new school year in September.

Gypsy moth damage was the topic of discussion at the recent meeting of the Lyman Moth Control Advisory Committee. The committee discussed the current status of the Lyman Moth problem within the district and the steps being taken to control the population.

A Clarification

Last week's article about the Clarke Community Street hearing for violating the parking code is not about a school attendance program. The Clarke Community School is a private, non-profit organization that provides education and support services to children with special needs.

The school operates a number of programs, including a special education program for students with intellectual disabilities.

The school also provides services to families of children with disabilities, including assistance with finding appropriate educational and support services.

It's great to get back to work so we can relax which will be the next day.

As the day went on, our meeting went well. We took a trip to Cape May, and had a great time at Cape May Point. Then the weather was very unfriendly, we took off on the railroad for the beautiful scenery of the mountains. It was a perfect day to walk the railroad tracks and see the beautiful scenery. The train was packed with people, and we had a great time. The food was delicious, and we enjoyed the views from the train. Overall, it was a wonderful day outside.

Hysteria and yesterday's witches

Wendy and I were out walking in the park when we saw a group of people standing around a statue. We walked up to them and started to talk. We learned that the statue was of a witch, and the people were there to celebrate the witching season. We took some pictures and continued our walk. It was a beautiful day outside, and we enjoyed learning more about the local history.
