Journalists and Doctors

Newspaper people and doctors have a great deal in common. That is the unusual theme of an editorial in the Louisville Courier Journal, entitled "Press and Medicine Both Serve The People."

The Journal says: "The two professions-medicine and journalism-have some notable points of similarity. Both are concerned with important functions of human life. Doctors strive to preserve and restore human health . . . Journalists deal with the health of human minds in a democracy by trying to keep them adequately informed.

"Both professions are practiced by men and wo men who are passionate believers in their calling: He is perhaps the root of some misunderstanding. Such pride can lead to a -both sides. The practitioners of both profession times fail to explain their actions fully to each other to the public, because they forget that any explanation is necessary . . ." Happily, misunderstandings born of such causes are much less common than they used to be. More and more doctors-along with medical societies-now recognize the need for good public relations, within the framework of medicine's high code of ethics. More and the enjoyment of Christmastime, more newspaper people, on their side, are showing a keen interest in the problems and achievements of tion, and in recollection. To enthe medical fraternity. The legitimate interests of both joy it to the full, therefore, we groups-and, of far greater importance, the public interest-is thus served.

Through this plan your money is saved for you before you get a chance to spend it. All you do is sign the authorization card in the payroll office where you work. Sign up for the amount you want. Dictators and the Economy

THURSDAY., DEC. 12, 1957

During one of the President's recent press conferences, he was asked what government programs would be reduced or eliminated in the effort to cut federal spending. In answering, he laid special stress on federal electric power development, saying: ` there is a very great difference between local or state government building things, that is, a public utility system or a dam or anything else, and the federal government doing it. Because as federal government begins to run riot with the expenditures that it deems good for the country, if necessary, it can print money; thank our many friends that could it can go into debt."

Then the President added: ". . . any government that controls all the power in the country can really dietate what the economy is going to be. They can shill $\boldsymbol{\kappa}$ and everything else." He made it clear that the Administration will continue to support the "partr "... plan of power development, which lays the primary responsibility for meeting local power needs on limit vate enterprise, local government, and other 1...

Many people see eye to eye with the President in his views on federal power-socialized electricity. These public plants escape all or the major part of the tax burden borne by private enterprise. They the Upper New Jersey Chapter become political footballs. And there is plenty of evir has held a Christmas party for dence that the people don't want them—in local election after local election proposed public power plants disease in northern New and systems have been voted down.

That to one side, what the President said about federal power is unassailable. These monopolies are forced on the people by politicians who make careers of promoting bigger and costlier government, and the people have no choice in the matter. Their power projects are tax-dodgers on a grandiose scale. And inevitably, they become dictators against whose policies there of America. is no effective recourse.

For a safe and pleasant trip, follow these suggestions from the National Safety Council:

1. Plan your trip so that as much of the driving as possible will be accomplished during the daylight hours.

2. Postpone your trip if the weather is bad or if hail, snow or sleet are prodicted for the area in which you plan to drive.
Consult the weather bureau for a forecast if you're in doubt.

3. Drive slowly and cautiously.
Wet, slippery roads increase emergency stopping distances.

4. Assume that there are ley or wet patches on seemingly dry pavement — especially around curves, beyond hillerests, on bridges and in shaded spots—and drive accordingly. Announcing once again this year we have received recognition from Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Co., manufacturers of the famous Bigelow Carpets qualifying us as the Karpet Kare rug cleaning agent in Bergen County. Look for the Bigelow emblem.

And the angel, Gabriel, said to Mary, "Fear not, thou has found favor with God . . . Thou shalt oring forth a son and shalt name him Jesus. He shall be great and be called the Son of the Highest." This Christmas as we worship and rejoice in celebrating the Nativity of the Prince of Peace, let us ever be mindful of the spiritual meaning of this great day and to live by and defend the teachings of Christ. Let us again reaffirm our faith in God and give thanks to Him for us pray for the less fortunate, who are fettered by fear and ignorance—for the sick and those in sorrow, that they may find new hope and happiness. Let us continue to pray for the unity of all nations, that all people may dwell in enduring peace and harmony. "And of His Kingdom there shall be no end."

Shorter Hours - More Inflation Labor union demands for a shorter work week, granted, would put the nation under the destructive economic crush of more inflation. Headline-seeking union bosses, arrogant in their monopolistic power, deliberately neglect to tell us that the shorter work week would result in drastically lowered production, spiraling unit costs, skyrocketing prices and depressed living standards. The shorter work week would create a gigantic swell of inflation that would burst onto our entire economy, wiping out hard-earned savings for capital investment, destroying plans for economic expansion to create more jobs for higher living standards; put those of our citizens who must live on fixed incomes in an untenable economic situation and pose a threat to the free co-
