Stolen calculators recovered on tip from Haledon dept.

Law enforcement officials in Haledon, New Jersey, say they have recovered five calculators stolen from a local library. The calculators were taken from the Reference Room of the Haledon Public Library on December 3, 1981.

The library's director, Mrs. Jane Smith, said the calculators were valued at $500 each and were used by students for various assignments. She said the calculators had been missing for several weeks and were last seen on November 21.

A tipster who called the police department on December 3 said he had seen a man with the calculators in a garage on the outskirts of town. The police部门 visited the garage and found the calculators, which were still in working condition.

The man, who was arrested and charged with larceny, told police he had found the calculators in a box near his front door. He said he had no idea where they came from.

The calculators have been returned to the library, and the man has been released on a summons to appear in court on December 10.

Fuel-switching is no nickel-and-dime proposition.

When you get to the anniversary of the day your heating system is installed, you’re likely to be looking forward to the coming winter months. But when you’re not ready to heat your home yet, the thought of fuel-switching systems can seem daunting. This is a proposition that is not a simple process. You need to take into account the cost of different fuels, the efficiency of your heating system, and the environmental impact of each fuel. It’s important to do your research, and consider your options before making a decision. Get in touch with a heating professional to discuss your options and make an informed choice.

Sanctuary is our Santa Claus... for the week of December 23rd

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus...

Santa Claus lives and loves here, according to this editorial published in The New York Sun on December 23, 1897. The classic work written by Francis P. Church (as a pen name for his employer, Joseph Pulitzer) has become a holiday classic as it asks children if their parents believe in Santa Claus.

Dear Editor,

I am 8 years old. Some of my friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says, "If you put out the coal and hay, Santa Claus comes.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus..."

This year, we are reminded of the importance of resilience and perseverance, as we prepare to迎接新的一年.

Tragic and violent events headed the list in 1981

With the passage of time, the events of the past year begin to fade into the background. However, some events remain etched in our memories, serving as a reminder of the fragility of life and the importance of cherishing every moment. Tonight, we honor the memory of those who were lost in the tragic events that shook our world.

Republicans expected to appoint councilman Friday

The Republican central committee was expected to appoint a replacement for 6th Ward Councilman Stephen F. Ericksen this week. The committee will meet Friday to consider candidates to fill the vacancy created by Ericksen's resignation last week.

Ericksen, who has represented the 6th Ward for more than a decade, announced his resignation on Monday, citing personal and family reasons.

"I have been reflecting on my role in the community and have decided that it is time for me to step down," Ericksen said in a statement released by the Republican central committee.

The 6th Ward includes parts of the Northside and Southside neighborhoods, as well as parts of the downtown area.

The Republican central committee will meet at 9 a.m. Friday at the Republican headquarters on Main Street. The meeting is open to the public and will be broadcast on local TV and radio stations.

The committee will narrow down the list of candidates based on interviews and background checks, and then make a recommendation to the town council for appointment.

The appointment will be subject to confirmation by the town council, which is scheduled to meet on Monday, Jan. 1.

The new councilman will serve until the November general election.
