on New Jersey in 1952

New Jersey, the Emerald of the East, continued to glow opaquely during 1952. This growth can be measured in increased population... in the advent of new factories and new branch plants and new shopping centers... in the installation of improved highway for industry... in the completion of improved highway building... in the development of new, grand industrial parks... and in many other important occasions throughout the year.

What did we expect for the future? We do not proceed to a vintner, but the growth of New Jersey in terms of industry, commerce, residential recreational areas has been maintained on a definite personal and business basis in the Emerald of the East.

The advantages which are offered in the residential building, such as the Emerald of the East, are an investment and so specifically on the upgrade that program is indicated without question.

Public Service Electric and Gas Company continues to play its part in a class of all general utility and play.
