Borough receives gift of 2 1/2 acres

The Borough of Hawthorne received a substantial gift when the dead body of a young woman was found at the bottom of a dike. The property will be used for the construction of a new million-gallon water tank at the top of Advanced Hill. The town, which is now operating without water, has been relying on temporary supplies from the Hawthorne Reservoir. At the January 15 meeting, the Recreation Committee recommended that the tank be placed on the site of the former reservoir, where it would be more accessible to the town's needs. The donation of the land is in recognition of the town's contributions to the community. The town plans to build a new water tank on the site of the former reservoir, and the land will be used for the construction of a new million-gallon water tank. The town is grateful for the donation and hopes to build a new water tank on the site of the former reservoir.

Dog license renewals

R. W. Hoye, Borough Clerk of Hawthorne, would like to remind all dog owners that the 1971 license fee is now due. The fee is $5.00. The licenses are required to be purchased by February 1 and must be displayed on the dog. The town is also looking for more volunteers to help with the renewal process. Those interested in helping are asked to contact the town clerk.

Zoning ordinance readopted

The Borough of Hawthorne readopted a number of zoning ordinances at its January 5 meeting. The ordinances include changes to the zoning regulations to accommodate the new million-gallon water tank. The town is grateful for the donation and hopes to build a new water tank on the site of the former reservoir.

Right - turn - on - red now in effect statewide

With the arrival of 1987, New Jersey residents must become aware of a new state law permitting right turns on red lights. This policy is permitted statewide with legislation that went into effect on January 1. The only exceptions occur when signs are posted stating "No Right Turn On Red."

In New Jersey, an ordinance has been passed designating specific intersections where right turns may not be made. Sign installation began yesterday. Movements may make right turns on red at any intersection, as long as no sign is posted.

Drivers are urged to be aware of this new policy. Additionally, some communities will install more traffic signals at more intersections, which may change traffic patterns.

Coffee boycott - It's asking a lot

This year is a time to make resolutions, but we should do it without coffee. New Jersey residents are urged to stop drinking coffee and to limit consumption to one cup per day. Many people are already doing this, but many are still drinking three or four cups per day.

The government has recently taken action to limit coffee consumption. They have ordered all coffee shops to close by 6 p.m. each day. People are asked to limit their coffee consumption to one cup per day. This is a good resolution for a New Year.

We hope the boycott is effective. It will help reduce our dependency on coffee and reduce the amount of money spent on coffee.

We have the money, but can't spend it

The state of New Jersey would be good at eating already-lived-halves. That's practically what our inhabitants are doing with the public funding payments being made to local school districts, while at the same time pressing boards of education from spending the money.

In Hawthorne, we've been receiving some $58,000-a-month since September due to passage of the state income-tax. While this money is being invested in interest-bearing accounts, no plans can be made for its relief to borough property owners.

Two weeks ago, a warrant was held for school board members to "claim" trustees on the method used to return aid to the public. The notice has been widely informed, because two local school board members who attended the conference came back with the message that "the district is planned to be able to meet these funds." They know this before they next go to the session. Now they learn that as of last Saturday the state legislature has not decided what farm aid-related works. They also learn that all the reports from nearly common concerns about proposed aid to school districts is only that they would like to.

As far as the district is concerned, the local property owner is up to its legislative if the state is a tax to be made it. The $63,000-budget is done. There is nothing telling or wrong against them. We are at our worst, group of us to have a Constitutional-prohibited-meeting to introduce an amendment to the New Constitution. That's being done, but the powerful group is running the state. The citizens are left out. All the bills that they are doing, and how made.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The Broward County Board of Commissioners are trying to meet the demands of a large population by cutting back on education. They are trying to cut expenses, but as the city grows, the need for more education increases.

The Board of Commissioners is trying to find ways to cut costs, but they are also trying to maintain the quality of education. This is a difficult task, as the city is growing rapidly.

The Broward County Board of Commissioners are trying to find a balance between cutting costs and maintaining the quality of education. They are working hard to ensure that the city's youth have the opportunity to receive a quality education.

Sincerely,

Editorial

It's no time for winter doldrums

January is traditionally a time for the winter doldrums to set in. This year, the cold and snow are certainly in the air, but I'm not sure that the same can be said of our.uuid government. With the passage of the Multiuse Land Use Act, many restrictions on residential and commercial developments have been lifted. However, the legislation does not take into account the needs of the residents of our community, who are facing the same problems as the rest of the country, such as overcrowding, traffic congestion, and pollution. It is important to consider the needs of our community and to work towards a solution that benefits all.

Wendy, The People...

By John W. Gordon

It is unfair to ask me to write about the state of the Union when President Kennedy is in the White House. However, I believe that the state of the Union is a matter of concern to all Americans, and I would like to share my thoughts on the current state of our nation.

The state of the Union is not as rosy as many would have us believe. Despite the many achievements of the past year, there are still many challenges that we must face. One of the most pressing issues is the need for economic growth. While the economy has improved in recent months, there is still much work to be done to ensure that all Americans have access to good jobs and the opportunities that come with them.

Another issue that我们必须面对 is the need for social justice. We must continue to work towards a society in which all Americans are treated equally, regardless of their race, gender, or sexual orientation. This includes ensuring that everyone has access to quality education and healthcare, and that everyone has the opportunity to participate in the economic life of our country.

In conclusion, I believe that the state of the Union is a matter of concern to all Americans, and we must continue to work towards a better future for all.

The most dangerous thing about the energy crisis is not understanding the practical alternatives.

In the meantime, practical alternatives, while not a substitute for curtailing consumption, can be part of the solution. For example, reducing our energy consumption by 10% will save about 10% of the energy we use. And it's not just a matter of reducing our energy consumption; it's also about making our energy consumption more efficient. For example, using more energy-efficient appliances will save us money in the long run.

The school aid rebate

The news that the state legislature has finally made a decision on the methods to be used to distribute state aid to the schools may please some. We think it will have definite appeal to the parents who want the local school in hand without any thought of how much is there. If the property owner who does nothing but complains about the high cost of taxes, may be far more than the salaries when the relief check arrives.

The fact that the state will only meet 1/10 while others might get up to 1/2 may cause some. Maybe it will even bring some taxpayers to question why our state government should be using our tax dollars to build back these schools.

The decision on the school aid is a one-time relief. Local school districts have received state aid payments since last September. Hawthorne has received $138,151 this year, which is still well below what it was in the past few years. Yet no one seems to know whether the state is going to make a decision. The interest on this money also will return to the taxpayers.

The legislature provides that the money go directly to the municipality, not to the school board. The school board would have the responsibility of building one long hall, and local tax collectors must deduct the entire amount from their bills. So no tax relief is planned to return to our schools board each month.

Schools are free of services that will be spent in the tax collector's office to get the relief back. In the past, they have spent more than $500,000 on such relief. It is too late to do anything about it, however. There are still hundreds of school districts in the state that are exempt from the relief. It is too late to do anything about it. As a result, the money will go back to the taxpayers.
