Strategy change carries Bears to win

Strategy change carries Bears to win

By Steve Peralta

It was fall 1971 and the Homestead High School girls tennis team was two games behind in a crucial match. The Bears needed a win to advance in the district tournament. The Bears were down by two games to none and their opponents were ahead three to two in the third game.

In the final set, the Bears were behind 15-9, but a change in strategy helped them overcome the deficit. They focused on aggressive net play and quick returns, which put pressure on their opponents. This strategy change allowed them to score two points and level the match. In the decisive third game, they continued this approach and scored five straight points for a 4-2 victory in the third game. The Bears went on to win the match 4-3 and advance to the district tournament.

These Bears were the first team at Homestead High School to advance to the district tournament in tennis. Their success was attributed to their ability to adapt to the changing conditions and their strong team spirit.

In 1972, they would go on to win the district championship, becoming the first team in the school’s history to achieve this feat. Their victory in the district tournament earned them a trip to the regional tournament where they would face tough competition. But their hard work and dedication paid off, as they managed to secure a spot in the regional tournament.

Their performance in the regional tournament was even more impressive. They faced some of the top teams in the county and managed to emerge victorious. The Bears’ success in the regional tournament earned them a trip to the state tournament, where they would face some of the best teams in the state.

Their journey in the state tournament was filled with challenges, but they managed to overcome them with their strong team spirit and dedication. They reached the state finals and finally won the championship, becoming the first girls’ tennis team from Homestead High School to achieve this honor.

The Bears’ success in 1972 was a testament to their hard work, dedication, and teamwork. They set a new standard for future teams to follow and inspired generations of students to pursue their dreams and strive for excellence.

There may be no wrestling varsity at HS

By Steve Peralta

While the Homestead High School wrestling program may be struggling, it is not unique to the school as a whole. Many high schools across the country are facing challenges in maintaining a successful wrestling program. The reason for this decline is varied, but it is often due to a lack of interest and support from the community.

Wrestling is a sport that requires a lot of energy and discipline. It is not a sport that can be easily mastered, and it takes years of hard work and dedication to become a successful wrestler. The sport is known for its physical demands, but it also requires mental strength and a strong sense of determination.

Despite the challenges, there are still many high schools that continue to excel in wrestling. These schools have a strong tradition of wrestling and enjoy the support of the community. They are able to attract talented wrestlers who are passionate about the sport and willing to put in the necessary time and effort to succeed.

However, for schools like Homestead, it may be more challenging to sustain a successful wrestling program. The sport requires a lot of resources, including equipment, facilities, and coaching staff. The school may not have the necessary funding or facilities to support a robust wrestling program.

That being said, it is not too late for Homestead to revive its wrestling program. The school could consider strategies such as recruiting more students who are interested in wrestling, securing additional funding, and ensuring that the program has the necessary support from the community.

Wrestling is a sport that can bring a lot of excitement and pride to a school. It can be a source of pride for students and alumni, and it can help to foster a strong sense of community spirit. Homestead could consider ways to revitalize its wrestling program and make it a source of pride for its students and community.

Un-Columbia Cable Television marked a milestone in its development this week as its first subscriber event unfolded over the 2,000 mark. To celebrate the company's important growth, Un-Columbia Antenna Systems' President Howard Selig held a special ceremony at the New-Hawthorne Convention Center.

The lucky subscriber was Mrs. Rose Smolik of Hawthorne, who was selected to own one of six televisions and related equipment prizes bought for the TV. "We are excited to see the community grow, and the growth is something that can be seen all over town," said Mrs. Selig, who claimed she had the audacity of the telecommunications company to say so.

Over the past five years, Un-Columbia has been making strides to enhance and expand its service area, offering a variety of services to accommodate the growing community.

Reserved decision in wife-girlfriend assault

Judge Peter Callicot recently declared a decision in a complicated and embarrassing case. The incident involved a woman who was found dead in her home, and her boyfriend had been arrested for murder.

Several witnesses, including the boyfriend, had given conflicting statements about the circumstances leading up to the woman's death. The defense argued that the boyfriend was under duress and that he had not intended to harm the victim.

During the trial, the judge listened carefully to the testimony of both sides and the evidence presented. However, he did not reach a decision and recessed the trial until further notice.

The next hearing is scheduled for the first week of February, and both the defense and prosecution are expected to present additional evidence.

Two Washingtonians, both criminal defendants, were found guilty of armed robbery today in a local court. The trial was held in the Washington County Courthouse and was attended by a large crowd.

The defendants, both of whom had previously been convicted of theft-related offenses, were found guilty after a three-day trial. They were sentenced to terms of imprisonment totaling 15 years.

The trial was marked by testimony from several witnesses, including police officers and the victims of the robbery. The defense presented several alibi witnesses, but the jury was not convinced.

The case has received widespread media attention and has been followed closely by the public.

Englehardt, Meeter withdraw from race

In a surprise development, two candidates for the School Board of Hawthorne, John Englehardt and Market I. Meeter, withdrew from the February 14 election, leaving three of the five trustees' seats open to the winning candidates. Marlon Felix, Hawthorne's Democratic candidate, and Beatrice Orfale, Hawthorne's Republican candidate, will now run uncontested for the remaining school board seats.

The withdrawal, which occurred in late January, has left the school board with a significant challenge. Englehardt and Meeter, who were close competitors, were expected to bring a new perspective to the board. The withdrawal will likely result in a more conservative slate of candidates.

Budget caps lifted

In another significant development, the board lifted the budget cap for the May 31 fiscal year. This cap, which had been in place for the past several years, will now allow the board to spend up to 125% of the proposed budget for the upcoming fiscal year.

High School vandalized over weekend

A group of vandals broke into the High School in the middle of the night and caused extensive damage to the school's interior. The incident, which occurred on Saturday night, is currently under investigation by the police department.

Eight days later, another armed robbery here

Hawthorne Police have arrested a second suspect in the armed robbery that took place on January 11. The suspect, who was wanted in connection with the previous incident, was apprehended in the town center.

The suspect, who was armed with a knife, entered a local convenience store and demanded money from the cashier. The police were notified and arrived on the scene within minutes, leading to the suspect's arrest.

The incident, which occurred in broad daylight, has raised concerns about the safety of the town. The police are currently increasing patrols in the area.
Varianceness unnecessary for North Jersey Car Case

By Alfred L. Haney

An appeal by North Jersey Car Co. to change the fine levied against it in a court case where it was charged with violating the state's new motor vehicle registration plan has been denied by the Appellate Division of the Superior Court. The court ruled that the company had failed to present sufficient evidence to warrant a lower fine.

North Jersey Car Co. is a large automobile dealership located in Paterson, New Jersey. The company was fined $300 for violating the state's new motor vehicle registration plan, which requires all dealers to register their vehicles with the state. The company filed an appeal, arguing that the fine was unwarranted.

The appellate court ruled that the company had not presented enough evidence to warrant a lower fine. The court noted that the company had not shown that it had taken steps to comply with the registration plan, and that it had not shown that it had made a good faith effort to comply.

The court also noted that the company had not shown that it had been able to comply with the registration plan, even if it had made a good faith effort. The court ruled that the company had failed to present sufficient evidence to warrant a lower fine, and that the fine was appropriate.

Haledon youth acquitted in drug case

By Max Mihailoff

A Haledon youth, accused of selling drugs, was found not guilty by a jury in Passaic County Superior Court. The youth, who was 16 years old, was charged with selling marihuana to a 14-year-old boy.

The youth was caught by the police after they received a tip that he was selling drugs. The police conducted a raid on his home, and found a small amount of marihuana on the premises.

The youth pleaded not guilty, and the jury found him not guilty. The police were not able to prove that the youth had actually sold the drugs.

In the case, the defense attorney argued that the youth was not guilty, and that the police had not been able to prove their case.

Tougher stand needed with vandals

Students and staff members were shocked at the condition of the high school Thursday morning when they returned from a long weekend of vacation. Vandalism had painted obscenities and references to drugs and rock bands on the corners of the school's sprawling main building.

It now appears dozens of acts of vandalism in the past and after each public outcry, the incidence of so-called "vandalism" seems to lessen. Yet, another apparent incident occurred, we are reminded of the foolishness of it all.

The problem is not unique to Hawthorne. Although the actual cost of vandalism is unknown in the U.S., one estimate places the annual national loss at one billion dollars. According to a government study, public school districts alone average more than $300,000 in vandalism losses each year.

Larger figures are available. No matter what the true cost, the fact is that losses from vandalism divert funds for repairs that could be used for education and programs. Widespread acts of vandalism sometimes result in injury and death.

Penalties must be enforced and the cost of vandalism in terms of repair costs and future expenditures.
Wrestling program is also well

by Glenn Jewett

On the heels of establishing two new records, the school’s wrestling program is alive and on track toward bigger things. The team has managed to set two new school records in recent meets, with a single victory and a dual meet victory.

The team has had a successful season so far, with two impressive wins. In their most recent match, they defeated a tough opponent with a score of 45-19. The team continues to work hard and improve, with a strong focus on technique and strategy.

Despite the challenges, the team remains optimistic and determined to achieve further success. They are currently preparing for their next match, where they hope to continue their winning streak.

On the same day, the school district announced that all classes would be closed for the next two days due to the severe weather conditions. This decision was made to ensure the safety of the students.

The residents were grateful for the efforts being made by the authorities. They expressed their appreciation and thanked the authorities for their efforts.

The situation was缓解 by the efforts of the authorities. The roads were cleared, and the residents were able to resume their normal lives.

Brian Keyser - he was always smiling

By Dave Parker

Starmaker Brian Keyser tragically died in a Manhattan auto accident last week, leaving behind a legacy of music and art that will be remembered by all who knew him.

Keyser was a singer, songwriter, and musician who had a passion for creating music and art. He was a member of the band "Teenage Sympathy," which he formed with his bandmate and best friend, Dan Fueck.

Keyser is survived by his family, including his parents and his younger brother.

In 1978, the New Jersey Transit Corporation established the "Brian Keyser Scholarship Fund" to commemorate his memory.

The fund was established to provide financial assistance to students pursuing higher education in the arts.

According to the fund, Keyser was a "tireless promoter of the arts and a champion of young talent."

The fund has awarded more than $100,000 in scholarships to students in the years since its establishment.

"Brian was always smiling," said his mother. "He had a gift for making people laugh and feel good."

Keyser's death is a loss to the music and arts community, and he will be remembered for his contributions to the arts.
