Controversy erupts over federal funds

A controversy over a portion of the federal funds to be received from the Public Service Employment Bill origination at the end of the 1970-71 session of the Washington State legislature. The bill involved a study to determine if the district could operate a school bus service and if so, what the total cost would be. The bill was originally approved by the State legislature and signed by the Governor. The State bond program in the bill included three additional school districts. The bond program in the bill included three additional school districts.

One of the provisions of the bill was the allocation of federal funds to the school district. The school district was to receive $150,000 for the first year of the program. The program was to be renewed for two additional years. The school district was to receive $300,000 for the second year and $450,000 for the third year. The funds were to be used to support the school district's program.

The controversy arose when the school district was informed that the funds would be reduced to $100,000 for the first year. The school district was not happy with the reduction and asked for a meeting with the state legislature. The school district believed that the funds were critical to their operation and that the reduction would have a negative impact on their program.

The school district was also concerned about the amount of federal funds that the other school districts would receive. The school district believed that the other school districts were receiving more federal funds than they were. The school district felt that the federal funds were not distributed fairly.

The school district asked the state legislature to review the allocation of federal funds and to ensure that the funds were distributed equally. The school district also asked for an increase in the amount of federal funds they would receive.

The state legislature agreed to a meeting with the school district. The meeting was held to discuss the allocation of federal funds and to ensure that the funds were distributed fairly. The state legislature agreed to increase the amount of federal funds that the school district would receive. The school district was pleased with the increase in the amount of federal funds they would receive.

The school district was also pleased with the fact that the federal funds were distributed fairly. The school district believed that the federal funds were critical to their operation and that the reduction would have a negative impact on their program.

It's foolish to rob Peter to pay Paul...
The old expression "robbing Peter to pay Paul" aptly fits the discussion that took last week's $5.6 million bond issue for Hawthorne School.

On the one hand, the Hawthorne School Board was faced with the task of providing a curriculum which has been budgeted for the high school guidance area. With the lack of money, the curriculum funds is rather applicable, because it is used to maintain and provide service that was Hawthorne's favorite charity - the Hawthorne School.

The Hawthorne School renovation is certainly a worthwhile endeavor, but we are not in the position to budget the school's system of funds.

On the other hand, there is a Board of Commissioners, who are the ones who are to approve the $5.6 million bond issue for the Hawthorne School.

It is for this reason that the school board was justified in approving the $5.6 million bond issue. The Board of Commissioners was supposed to decide the matter of whether the $5.6 million bond issue was in accordance with the Hawthorne School's budget.

Today 7-7-77

We're not gamblers, but if we were, we'd find something lucky to today's date.

The number 7-7-77 has been said to have some significance in a world where a such repetitive placement of lucky numbers won't work for another issue. We won't be around then and whoever heads this column will have no guarantee that the above number may still pop up on the Press publication date.

John DeBel receives patent for invention

By Anthony Shahidi

John DeBel, 57, of Des Moines, has designed a bank which he says he can use to make money in more than one way. The bank is named "The Hawthorne Bank" and has been awarded a U.S. Patent for the invention.

DeBel's bank curiously resembles a doughnut. It is designed to be placed in a window of a business or residence. The bank has a cash drawer that can be accessed from the outside of the bank through a special door. The door is locked by a combination that only the owner knows.

"This bank is the first of its kind," DeBel said. "It's designed to be a secure place to store money while also being a conversation piece. I think people will enjoy the novelty of having a bank in their home."

July 14, 1977

Dear Sir: Mr. Mazzucca,

You have given me some food for thought with your letter to the editor July 7th. It is surprising to find the same arguments bandied about over and over again. I must agree with you, with the exception of the last paragraph. I have heard the same arguments about the right of the public to know the facts, and I have always agreed with you on that point.

Sensible in The Sun

Summer is a time for relaxing in the sun. It's enjoyable and, in moderation, beneficial. But, like most good things in life, it can be overdone. Too much exposure to the sun can be harmful, even fatal.

Over-exposure to the sun can cause skin cancer, the most common form of all cancers. The American Cancer Society estimates that 300,000 new cases of skin cancer appear in the United States each year. Some 5,000 Americans die of skin cancer annually.

Fortunately, skin cancer is among the most curable forms of the disease. When caught early, 95% of superficial skin cancers can be cured. It is best thoroughly, to make sure skin cancer is not one of the first things that can be checked. It can be avoided by taking simple precautions:

Avoid, or limit, exposure between 11 am and 3 pm.

Wear a broad-brimmed hat and keep your arms covered.

Use medically-approved sunscreens and sun-screening lotions.

In addition, take the amount of sun you can tolerate. But do so in a way that is not harmful to your health.

Lindgren, who has been racing for over 20 years, was the first to cross the finish line, followed closely by Bob Anderson, who had been trailing in 2nd place until the last lap. Vandalism is an epidemic

When the news broke that the Hawthorne police had apprehended a juvenile for numerous window-breaking incidents in our borough, it was easy for some to jump to the conclusion that vandalism would cease. Yet within one week, 14 homes and stores were victims, and another to find a window smashed on their property. The same, the targets of these vandals, are neighbors and friends, more than just financial.

The story isn’t over. The juvenile is supposed to be of committing these destructive acts, but it is at least one that has not been identified. The damage. This brings us to the question of parental responsibility. Parents don’t know what their children are doing unless they call on their door, and they should be aware of what their children are, especially at night.

The only defense is that the juvenile has target. His type of vandalism is to keep his vehicle in a garage, and for some, this is a workable solution. The other way citizens can help is to be aware and notify police immediately if they see or hear any type of vandalism.

None of these are solutions in the problem, which grew to a nationwide epidemic of vandalism and destruction.

It’s about time

The appointment of Mrs. Ellis Mobley to the Board of Adjustment marks the first time a woman has been named in this capacity. As a veteran banking official, she has gained tremendous experience in the business and financial world. We hope her background will aid the board in many difficult decisions that face the zoning board.

We applaud the decision of the Board of Commissioners to provide a female member for one of the superior boards. As more and more action is being taken to equalize appointments at all levels of government, it’s about time that Hawthorne began to follow the trend.

This brings us to the question of parental responsibility. Parents don’t know what their children are doing unless they call on their door, and they should be aware of what their children are, especially at night.

The only defense is that the juvenile has target. His type of vandalism is to keep his vehicle in a garage, and for some, this is a workable solution. The other way citizens can help is to be aware and notify police immediately if they see or hear any type of vandalism.

None of these are solutions in the problem, which grew to a nationwide epidemic of vandalism and destruction.

It’s about time

The appointment of Mrs. Ellis Mobley to the Board of Adjustment marks the first time a woman has been named in this capacity. As a veteran banking official, she has gained tremendous experience in the business and financial world. We hope her background will aid the board in many difficult decisions that face the zoning board.

We applaud the decision of the Board of Commissioners to provide a female member for one of the superior boards. As more and more action is being taken to equalize appointments at all levels of government, it’s about time that Hawthorne began to follow the trend.
