VICTORY GARDENS ON HOME FRONT

Sufficient Vegetables for Entire Family Can Be Raised on Small, Fertile Sites

HOWEVER Hitler, Hirohito and Mussolini may be kept guessing about Allied offensives on the fighting fronts of the world, they can just as well be told right now that there is no secret about one of America's great drives on the home front. It's the Victory Garden campaign, already under way and expected to set national record for home food production.

When a national poll late last month reported that 94 per cent of the citizens interviewed were intending to grow gardens this year, newspaper readers of the country became aware of the proper-good gardens from inexperienced gardeners then became one of the department's war concerns. Fortunately, its bureau of plant industry, in the agricultural research administration, has been dealing with this problem in normal domestication for many years, and was all set to meet the demand for information as it might arise.

It is impossible, of course, to avoid thinking of some vegetables. Small seeds like those of carrots, radishes, onion, parsnips, spinach, and turnips must be sown three or four times as thick as the plants will eventually grow, because many seeds fail to grow well. Surplus seedlings then have to be thinned out before the plants crowd each other.

When the inexperienced gardener begins to worry about not planting his seeds too deep or too shallow, too early or too late, and realizes the many other details that have to be kept in mind, he will appreciate truly the boldness of such publications as the department of agriculture's "Victory Gardens" and the other free bulletins that can be obtained from the government and state agricultural colleges and extension services. Most valuable of all to him will probably be the one published nearest to his home, for from it he can obtain most specific information on the times of planting and on the varieties of vegetables best adapted to his locality.

With such aid, 10,000,000 Americans and their helpers are this year expected to plant Victory Gardens—4,000,000 of them on farms, the rest in their backyards, on vacant lots, or in community Victory Gardens. With the seed sown and the seeds known to gardeners as weeds, insects, and diseases. But they will still have to face the Axis agents known to gardeners as weeds, insects, and diseases. But they will know at least that their own home-front offensive is under way and that the seeds of Victory are in the ground.

The first of garden fundamentals has by now been reduced to terms so simple that they make gardening seem easier than it really is—to say the least. The great complaint has been put on perseverance. No one reading the home-front publication, it is pointed out repeatedly, should be determined to stay by his job without wasting seed, fertilizer, or effort. But with such a determination plus a willingness to learn the hard way, if necessary, the 1943 Victory Gardeners can be confident of success, because he is going to get all the help that the federal government, state agricultural colleges, and many other public and private agencies can give him.

The first requirement that the new gardeners will find in the special "Control 95% of Food" is to use under some sort of government regulation. Rationing also is being planned for most, cheese, butter, fats and oils, it has been reported. The War Production Board is expected to make plans to provide necessary materials for the big breadbasket war effort in the coming because of vegetable rationing.

Sections written by the experts in for a garden spot that is both sunny and fertile. And for his help in judging fertility he is given the rule-of-thumb: "If the weeds grow rank, the soil is fertile." Good soil, moisture and sunbath are three essentials. If they are missing, no gardener can expect to grow enough crops to justify his use of seed, fertilizer and effort.

Would-be gardeners are urged not to throw up their hands too soon if they can not find a good growing area on their own home lots. Many Americans in such circumstances are looking earnestly at the vacant lots in their neighborhood and still others are seeking what their chances may be to get an allotment in a community garden—or to get there in some way available.

The home gardener this year is advised to grow just as nearly all the fresh vegetables for his family as he possibly can. A garden 20 feet by 100 feet tilled and kept growing all season, for example, expected to produce enough vegetables to give each member of a family of five at least three servings a day, which comes about as close to providing the needed four to seven daily servings of fruits and vegetables as many gardeners can come. Smallest garden size for which a garden plan is suggested by the department of agriculture is 30 by 30 feet, but even smaller areas will grow a worthwhile crop of tomatoes and a few other crops, if space cannot be obtained.

Choose Vegetables You Like. With the area located, the Victory Garden's next step is putting the garden on paper, an exercise not only interesting but also especially helpful for the inexperienced. Arranging the garden properly leads to the real thing, and that means tools. Fortunately, however, at a time when metal is scarce, cutting elaborate is needless. There are many garden implements, but four of them will serve all purposes very well—a spade or spading fork, a steel rake, a common hoe, and a strong cord.

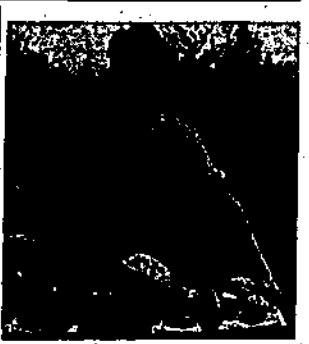

Spading cord must be soon as the garden has been cleared of debris. Eight to ten inches is a good depth for spading if the top soil is deep. On this layer of top soil or on a layer of manure or other fertilizer, the gardeners are careful not to turn up too much of the subsoil. To increase the soil's fertility, the spade should mix in some well-rotted manure, or other organic matter if it is available. Fertilizers are available. Every 20 square feet of the garden can well take as much as a bushel. Commercial fertilizer will also be needed on most gardens, but its application can best be delayed until after the plants have been sown. Cabbage and the whole garden worked up with the rake and smoothed out for planting. Then the fertilizer is applied.

Plants Should Be Spaced. Spacing the garden properly leads to the real thing, and that means tools. Fortunately, however, at a time when metal is scarce, cutting elaborate is needless. There are many garden implements, but four of them will serve all purposes very well—a spade or spading fork, a steel rake, a common hoe, and a strong cord.

Variety for Everybody.

planted in bands along the planted rows. This year Victory Gardeners will have a special fertilizer with 3 per cent nitrogen (about 85 per cent of it is phosphoric acid) and 7 per cent phosphorus. Described as the best formula that can be made available to Victory Gardeners, this fertilizer is sold in packages of 5, 10, 25, 50, and 100 pounds net weight, labeled "Victory Gardens Fertilizer for Food Production Only."

This fertilizer is best applied along the garden rows in a band about three or four inches wide, about two inches from the line where the seeds will be sown or the plants set. A wide furrow about two inches deep is scooped out with the hoe. The fertilizer is spread uniformly along this furrow, at the rate of 1 pound per 24 or 25 feet or row, mixed with the soil, and covered with two inches of soil. It should not be used in the garden rows in a band about three or four inches wide, about two inches from the line where the seeds will be sown or the plants set.

Common to all gardeners at planting time is the danger of sowing seed too thickly—a mistake that is wasteful not only of precious seed but also of time. For seed that is sown wastefully produces seedlings that must later be thinned at the expense of time and sometimes backache.

Bean and pea seeds should be spaced as the plants are expected to stand, for these vegetables should never be thinned in the row. Beet and carrot "seeds" are really fruits containing several seeds and should be sown so thickly that the plants are in stand, although some thinning will be needed. Cabbage and tomato and onion plants and onion sets are also placed where they will remain.

Crop Prospects Favorable. Prospects are favorable for another record-breaking year of food production, the department of agriculture has pointed out in a summary of agricultural developments. However, the demand for farm products is expected to increase more than production.

Meat conditions were favorable at the beginning of 1943 and with early average weather from corn, wheat, and soybean crops, the outlook for meat production is bright. Corn harvest, crop yields per acre, were likely to be high in 1943 and 1944, and the outlook for meat production is bright.

Shaking Hands

The explanation of the custom of shaking hands is quite simple. Most people are right-handed, and in the turbulent days of old, when everybody even in peace-time carried weapons, the safest thing any man could do when greeting another of whose disposition he could not be too sure was to grasp his right hand. Each, therefore, had his right hand immobilized, so that he could not make a sudden attack upon the other.

Public Service News

Radio plays an important part on the war front today, not only as a means of communication, but also for other purposes were secret. But, on the home front, it is also playing an important part in helping to maintain a steady flow of electric power to the thousands of industries so vital to the nation's war effort.

Application of radio to the electric power industry consists of a system of control whereby electric power is distributed automatically and prevented from spreading and shutting off power. Public Service utilizes this application of radio.

Radio sets, in terms of the electric industry, are not to be confused with the type in the home. The set is connected to a high voltage substation bus and with its associated equipment is as tall as an ordinary two-story house. The set has no antenna, in the usual sense, but is connected to the high voltage transmission lines by means of special devices. The radio waves are not broadcast into the air in all directions in the usual manner, but are guided or "carried" by the high voltage conductor to which the set is connected.

Hence the term "carrier current" is applied to this particular application of radio. Usually all of this equipment is housed outdoors, and is housed in weather-proof containers made of porcelain and steel.

Pursuant to the order of JOHN McNAUGHTON, Surrogate of the County of Passaic, made on the sixth day of February, 1943, on the application of Harold W. Steinmetz, Administrator of the estate of Maude Devereaux (also known as Maude Devereaux) deceased, notice is hereby given to the creditors of said deceased to exhibit to the undersigned Administrator as aforesaid their claims and demands against the said estate, under oath, within six months from the date of the aforesaid order, or they will be forever barred of their actions thereon against the said estate.

Dated, Paterson, N. J., February 6th, 1943.
HAROLD W. STEINMETZ
Claiming to be entitled to the gas department of the company. Mr. Clark on Feb. 23 completed 45 years with Public Service and predecessor companies.

Upon being graduated from Union College in 1896 with a degree of B.E., Mr. Clark entered the service of the East River Gas Company, New York, as gas engineer.

Mr. Clark remained with that company until 1902, when he came to the Newark Gas Company, a predecessor company of Public Service, as superintendent. This company was later merged into the Newark Consolidated Gas Company and the Essex and Hudson Gas Company, which was one of the many companies taken over by Public Service Corporation of New Jersey in 1907.

On March 1, 1909, Mr. Clark became superintendent of distribution of the Orange, Monticello and Summit districts and in 1908, he was made engineer of distribution, Essex Division, becoming general superintendent of distribution, Feb. 1, 1917.

Mr. Clark was made vice-president in charge of gas operation in June, 1926, having been promoted to succeed the late Henry D. Whitcomb.

EMPEROR'S CUP

Back in 1926, Major James E. Snow, officer in charge of the Marine Corps rifle range at San Diego, Calif., was awarded what was called the "Emperor's Cup" for winning a Japanese-sponsored shooting contest at Tientsin, China. He has announced that the cup will be given back to the Japs within a short time in the form of a solid bullet, made in the USA.

The event at which Major Snow won the trophy, involving 12-gauge shotgun, was planned as an all-Japanese affair, but to give the affair prestige and international flavor three US Marine Corps officers were invited to compete. The sponsors, however, boasted that the "American" couldn't win.

Scoring 96 points out of a possible 100, Major Snow won top honors with several points to spare.

Japs Were Disappointed There was great loss of face and dismay among the Japanese military men. It would be impossible, they explained, to give the beautiful Emperor's Cup, which was three feet high, to an American.

The cup, they said, had been donated by the emperor himself. After Japanese officers had discussed the situation at length, it was decided that, instead of the Emperor's Cup, the Marines would have to accept a "small" trophy, together with a special price of an Emperor's letter.

Citizens can rest assured that all the powers at the command of the leaders will be used to again place back in office the men who for the past eight years have not been able to show any civic prudence that was instituted by themselves.

Within a few weeks meetings will be held in the borough to give the people an opportunity to voice their thoughts in regards to the independent movement on foot and from the response a goodly number of volunteer workers will offer their services to elect men who are not afraid to vote no.

This indeed will be a relief from the wishy-washy attitude of your present "Appointees" who when any question presents itself where they must use their own minds they either scurry to the politicians for support or hide behind the skirts of the Advisory Board.

We believe that it is time for a change in the administration in the town. After eight years they have nothing to show for their efforts but a water tank which no one knows the exact cost of and a trail of civic blunders which is appalling to any right thinking citizen.

We believe that the independent movement should and will be given the support of every right thinking citizen who believes in independence of thought.

HEALTH BOARD

their support from these same employees on election day? Why should a man who is doing a decent day's work have to man the polls? But orders will be orders on that day.

Will there be a political move to "pull out" the independent group at the last moment? From what we have observed of the men mentioned as candidate material they will be in the fight to the finish. A truly independent group.

Mr. Bob Moon Is Speaker At Gospel Church

The meeting of the Hawthorne Gospel Church this Sunday afternoon will be an unusual one from the standpoint of interest in that the testimony of a young business man from New York City will be heard. Mr. Bob Moon, who was expelled from several universities because of his escapades, will tell how he found peace and satisfaction in receiving Christ to his Savior. He is now a successful business man who devotes a great deal of time to a layman's ministry in the Gospel. He is one of the pianists heard each Saturday night on the "Word Of Life Hour" a youth radio broadcast from station WHN.

He will speak at the regular afternoon meeting at 8:45 and will also address the Men's Bible class at 2:30 during the Bible School session. Mr. Moon has had much experience in dealing personally with all kinds of inquirers into Christian faith. He will bring with him a group of young people who will also take part in the meeting.

LOU MONDELLI JOINS MARINES
Lou Mondelli, star athlete at Pompton Lakes High School where he is now a member of the senior class, has enlisted in the United States Marine Corps and was sworn in last week. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mondelli of 44 So. Rex Avenue, Midland Park and was a star football at Pompton last fall.
