Borough water survey ready to be mailed

Although the area has experienced some drought conditions, the borough has maintained its normal water usage. The water department has been operating at full capacity, but it is expected to continue at this level. The community remains vigilant in monitoring water usage and ensuring the water is used efficiently.

Asbestos removal required at the high school

The Asbestos Advisory Committee has recommended the removal of asbestos at Hawthorne High School. The building has been identified as having asbestos in various locations, including the ceilings and floor coverings. The committee has recommended that the asbestos be removed to ensure the safety of the students and staff. The school district is currently in the process of arranging for the removal of the asbestos.
Under the gavel

In addition to the usual bills, the physical clay had been cut in two.

A large gavel brought to the scene by King Roger, 200 Tonics Road, was weighed down by the gavel and removed from the Board of Education's meeting. A gavel was also cut in two and removed from the Board of Education.

Li’l League’s $30 registration fee - simplistic solution

Just when you thought it was safe to play baseball again in 1981, the municipal pool will open, offering another opportunity for children to enjoy the sport. Parents will have to sign up their sons and daughters for the Little League (LL) Little League baseball/softball program and learn that the non-refundable $30 registration fee is required.

At first glance, the fees seem shocking. A recent survey conducted by the American Society for Social Welfare indicated that 60% of American families can’t afford to pay the $30 fee. The Little League season is expected to begin in late April, and families are beginning to get nervous about the cost of participating.

Comment: Who or what is Hawthorne named after?

Hawthorne has many names that have been attributed to it over the years. Some say the town was named after Nathaniel Hawthorne, the American author and short story writer who lived in the town in the 1830s. Others believe it was named after the Hawthorne Hotel, which opened in the town in the 1860s. Some say the town was named after the Hawthorne family, who were early settlers in the area.

This system, providing a gas source, not only allows you to enjoy all of the advantages of the gas engine, but also allows you to stretch your change and tune-up intervals to the maximum of 25,000 miles.

DUAL CONVERSION

Eliminate any possibility of fuel pilferage.
Increase vehicle engine life to 200,000 miles or more.
Invest in an alternate fuel system that can pay for itself within 12 months and can be transferred from one vehicle to another.

We also offer a demonstration vehicle that runs on our system at any times. You, as the prospective owner, can operate it yourself and see the advantages of the propane-powered system. For further information please call or write to:

Resolution not yet passed for boro hall lease

by Dona Z. Zenz

The Board of Freeholders has scheduled a March 21 meeting to consider the lease of the former Borough Hall, 604 Main St. The board has agreed to lease the building to a group of residents who have proposed converting it into a community center. Police director post proposed for Haledon

by James A. Schneir

A proposal to establish a police department in Haledon, N.J., has been submitted to the borough council. The proposal, if approved, would create a police department and a chief of police. The chief of police would be appointed by the borough council and would be responsible for the administration of the police department. The proposal also includes a budget for the department, which would be funded by the borough.

The area in the middle of the Boulevard, which is a popular spot for illegal dumping, has been a source of concern for residents. The police department has been cracking down on illegal dumping, but the problem continues. The police department has been using night time patrols to catch drivers who are dumping trash, but this is not always effective. The proposed police department would have more resources to combat illegal dumping. The police department would have a larger budget and more officers to enforce the law.

State takeover of water systems erodes local control

Last week's ruling by the federal government to declare New Jersey's Poplar Point as an endangered species of the state is an indication of the size and nature of this problem. It is a major threat to the environment and the health of the state. It is also an indication of the need for strong, independent local government to protect the state's natural resources.

The state's decision to take control of the water systems in the area is a step in the right direction. However, there are still many questions that need to be answered. How will the state ensure that the water systems are operated efficiently? How will they ensure that the water systems are environmentally sound? What will happen to the jobs of the water system workers? These are just a few of the questions that need to be addressed.

Fuel-switching is no nickel-and-dime proposition.

Before you say,"just turn it up" to accommodate your demanding schedules, consider the significant impact this will have on your energy expenses. This winter, the cost of fuel has skyrocketed, and you’re probably spending more than you ever thought possible on heating your home. This is not a situation you want to continue.

Changing your heating or cooling system to a more efficient option can save you thousands on your energy bills. It’s an investment that will pay off in the long run.

The American Council for an Energy Efficient Economy (ACEEE) estimates that replacing an old, inefficient heating or cooling system with a newer, more efficient model can save homeowners up to 30% on their energy costs.

In addition to the financial benefits, fuel-switching can improve the comfort and health of your home. An efficient heating or cooling system will maintain a consistent temperature, ensuring that your home is always comfortable.

So, if you’re tired of spending too much on fuel, consider fuel-switching. It’s not just a nickel-and-dime proposition; it’s a decision that will save you money and improve your quality of life.

Under the gavel

Fuel-switching is no nickel-and-dime proposition.

Before you go to the unnecessary expense of switching your fuel system from coal to oil or gas, consider the following damaging factors... There are many reasons why you should not do it.

It is not as simple as it seems. You cannot switch from oil to gas without changing your appliances. To switch from gas to oil, you may have to replace your appliances. Make sure you consult with your contractor before making a decision. Make sure you have a professional opinion before making a decision.

Pasquale: Difficult decisions facing the school board

If this year's school tax is any indication, I think we can expect more problems in the near future. The school board will have to face difficult decisions on budget cuts for the coming year.

The school budget is a very significant part of the annual budget. The budget includes funding for all aspects of the school system, from teachers' salaries to the purchase of new textbooks.

Under the gavel

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE!

STOP The Waste of Tax Dollars For Needless Expenditures, Such As The Bus Garage.

A $46,000 annual lease to house school buses is not prudent in GOOD Economic Times. What justifies such a move in these difficult times?

Even if the Board is released from this lease And the costs drop to $23,000 or $2300, This fact that this mistake was made is unforgivable. Our Young and our Elderly will pay the highest price. It's the POOR PLANNING that hurts today And will hurt even more tomorrow!

Police director ordinance passes first reading

For Donald Edholm

March 16, 1971

The ordinance to prohibit the use of electric blankets and similar devices in private homes was passed unanimously by the City Council at its regular meeting on Monday night. The ordinance is part of a larger effort to improve the fire safety in the city.

The ordinance prohibits the use of electric blankets and similar devices in private homes, which have caused several fires in recent years. The council members were concerned about the safety of residents and wanted to prevent any further incidents.

The ordinance was introduced by City Council Member Jane Smith, who has long been advocating for better fire safety regulations in the community. She said that the ordinance is a step in the right direction and that she hopes it will be enacted into law soon.

The ordinance is expected to go into effect in the next few months, and it is hoped that residents will comply with the new regulations to ensure the safety of themselves and their neighbors.

Resignations threatened:

Volunteer firemen protest cuts in their budget

For Dennis Johnson

March 16, 1971

The volunteer fire department is in jeopardy of losing its funding, which could result in the loss of its firefighters. The department has been operating on a shoestring budget, and the city council has been considering cutting its funding.

The firefighters have been protesting the proposed cuts, and they are threatening to resign if their demands are not met. They have been asking for better equipment and training to ensure the safety of the community.

If the firefighters resign, the city will have to hire new firefighters, which could be costly. The firefighters have been asking for a raise in their salary, and they believe that it is necessary to attract and retain qualified firefighters.

The city council is expected to make a decision on the funding for the volunteer fire department in the next few weeks. The firefighters are hoping that their demands will be met, and they are willing to continue their protest until their demands are heard.

School budget is only a guide

Paul Chisholm, a selectman on the Board of Education, said that the school budget is only a guide. "We need to be careful when making budget decisions," he said. "The budget is a starting point, but it is not the end goal." He also mentioned the importance of community involvement in the budgeting process.

How much flexibility is 9.4%?

Questions about the budget were raised by John Brown during a recent board meeting. He asked, "How much flexibility is 9.4%?" The answer given by the school administration was that 9.4% is the percentage of new programs and initiatives that can be funded within the budget. This includes things like new technology, new extracurricular activities, and new teacher training programs.

Administrative post defended

"It is hard to believe that a borough resident can be the next administrative post," said a local resident during a recent meeting. "But it is necessary for the good of the borough." The resident went on to say that the administrative post is crucial for the successful operation of the borough's government.

When municipal officials battle school boards

Acrytal feel it must predict that North Haven residents are getting ready to vote on a bond issue for April. No, the school district isn’t on the ballot. What this is about is whether to build a new high school or whether to improve the existing one. It’s a battle between the town and the school district over the future of public education in North Haven.

Blackstone, who published the Board of Education for Municipal School District, and the Manchester Regional School Board of Education in the past, is now defending the school district’s position on this issue.

It’s hard to give an accurate estimate of the cost because the project is still in the planning stages. However, a rough estimate is that the new high school would cost between $30 million and $40 million. The current high school, which serves about 1,200 students, has been in operation for over 50 years.

The main argument against building a new school is that the existing one is not as modern as other schools in the region. The new high school would be built to meet current educational standards and would have more spacious classrooms, more up-to-date facilities, and better safety features.

On the other hand, the argument for building a new school is that the existing one is showing signs of age and may not be able to accommodate future growth. The school district has already had to make several minor repairs to the building in recent years.

It’s clear that the decision will have a significant impact on the North Haven community. Whatever happens, it’s important for residents to carefully consider all the options and make an informed decision.

Reagan’s proposed tax cuts

A coalition of unions, officials, and professionals is calling for the adoption of Reagan’s proposal to cut taxes. They argue that putting more money into the pockets of workers and businesses will help stimulate the economy and create jobs.

The coalition is concerned that the proposed tax cuts will benefit the wealthy and large corporations, while the middle class and working class will not see a significant change in their tax burden.

They are calling for a fairer tax system that distributes the burden of taxation more evenly across all income levels. They also want to see increased spending on education, health care, and infrastructure.

The coalition is urging Congress to carefully consider the proposed tax cuts and make sure they benefit everyone, not just the wealthiest Americans.

Ruiten explains why taxes are going up

At a special meeting with council members from all boroughs, Mayor Ruiten explained the reasoning behind the 12.25% increase in the 1981 municipal budget. The increase was necessary due to the rising cost of goods and services, as well as the need for additional personnel to handle the demands of the borough. The council felt that the increase was justified and approved it without further discussion.

Manchester school budget under fire

A local property owner has filed a lawsuit against the Manchester Borough Council, arguing that the proposed budget is unfair and unreasonable. The owner claims that the budget is overly generous and does not reflect the current economic conditions. The council is expected to respond to the lawsuit in the near future.

North Haledon school budget passes 6-3

North Haledon school budget passes 6-3

By Anthony Farnelli
North Haledon — Last Wednesday night, the North Haledon Board of Education successfully passed the school budget for the upcoming fiscal year. The $10.9 million budget was approved with a vote of 6-3, with the majority of the school board members expressing their support.

The budget includes a 3% increase in expenditures, which is significantly lower than the 4.9% increase projected in the previous fiscal year. The funds will be used to support a variety of programs, including technology, arts, and sports.

“The budget has been carefully planned to ensure that we can provide a high-quality education for our students while maintaining fiscal responsibility,” said Board President Jane Smith. “We are committed to making sure that our students have access to the resources they need to succeed.”

The budget also includes a 2% increase in staff salaries, which will help to retain experienced teachers and attract new talent.

“At North Haledon, we are proud to have a talented and dedicated teaching staff,” said Smith. “This increase will help us to retain our current teachers and attract new talent.”

The budget was approved unanimously, with only one member voting against it.

“I do not support this budget,” said Board Member John Doe. “I believe that we can do more with less.”

After the vote, the school board members received a standing ovation from the crowd of community members who had come to support the budget.

“We are grateful for the support of our community,” said Smith. “We look forward to working with everyone to ensure that our students have the best possible education.”

The budget goes into effect on July 1, 2023.
