Middle school concept surfaces again; Franklin-Washington transfer finalized

The concept of a middle school surfaced as a definite possibility during the first part of a long-range plan to recognize the through-elementary levels. The entire plan was the result of a series of meetings of the elementary and junior high school committees which had reported that the school administrators believed the elementary school levels were in need of reorganization. The report was formally presented to the board of education at its regular meeting.

The first part of the discussion dealt with the language gap and with the estimated cost of a middle school. The elementary school committees had agreed that the middle school system would be of great benefit to the students.

Part 1 — Middle school

The administrator spoke with a series of photographs and maps on the proposed plan. The programs at the new school would be divided into three main parts.

1. Language Improvement
   - A new middle school would be built, with classes for students who need improvement in their language skills.
   - The classes would be small, with a maximum of 20 students per class.

2. Science and Math Improvement
   - Similar to the language classes, science and math classes would be offered.
   - The classes would be smaller than in the current schools.

3. General Improvement
   - Classes for students who need overall improvement in their academic skills.

The cost of the middle school would be approximately $2 million. The funds would be raised through a bond issue.

Zoners hear three use variance applications

There were three variance applications that were heard by the board at a special meeting of the Hawthorne Board of Adjustment on Thursday. One was approved, one denied, and one held over.

The hearing on the agenda was of a variance application for a two-family dwelling located at 101 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a two-family dwelling, but the owner wants to build a three-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Mr. John Smith, presented his case, explaining that the current zoning does not take into account the needs of the community. He argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The hearing on the second variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 102 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Ms. Jane Doe, explained that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. She argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The hearing on the third variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 103 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Mr. Robert Johnson, presented his case, explaining that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. He argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The board voted 6-2 to grant the variance.

Policemen increase patrols for malicious mischief

During the past week, 14 instances of malicious mischief throughout the borough have been reported to the police. Police Chief J.J. Shaughnessy reported that the increase in the number of incidents is due to the recent increase in the number of residents. He also said that the patrol officers have been carrying out a more vigorous search to catch those responsible.

The police have increased their patrols in the area, and the residents are encouraged to report any suspicious activity to the police. The police have also set up a reward program for information leading to the arrest of those responsible for the mischief.

John Paolillo requested that the board agree to enter into a lease for the property. The property is located at 101 Laramie Avenue, and the applicant, Mr. John Smith, presented his case, explaining that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. He argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The board voted 6-2 to grant the variance.

The hearing on the second variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 102 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Ms. Jane Doe, explained that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. She argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The hearing on the third variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 103 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Mr. Robert Johnson, presented his case, explaining that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. He argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The board voted 6-2 to grant the variance.

The hearing on the fourth variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 104 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Mr. Henry Davis, presented his case, explaining that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. He argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The board voted 6-2 to grant the variance.

The hearing on the fifth variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 105 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Mr. Charles Evans, presented his case, explaining that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. He argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The board voted 6-2 to grant the variance.

The hearing on the sixth variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 106 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Mr. William Martin, presented his case, explaining that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. He argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The board voted 6-2 to grant the variance.

The hearing on the seventh variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 107 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Mr. James Ross, presented his case, explaining that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. He argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The board voted 6-2 to grant the variance.

The hearing on the eighth variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 108 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Mr. David Brown, presented his case, explaining that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. He argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The board voted 6-2 to grant the variance.

The hearing on the ninth variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 109 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Mr. John Doe, presented his case, explaining that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. He argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The board voted 6-2 to grant the variance.

The hearing on the tenth variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 110 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Mr. Robert Smith, presented his case, explaining that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. He argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The board voted 6-2 to grant the variance.

The hearing on the eleventh variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 111 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

The applicant, Mr. John Jackson, presented his case, explaining that the current zoning does not allow for the maximum use of the property. He argued that the additional unit would provide much-needed housing for families.

The board voted 6-2 to grant the variance.

The hearing on the twelfth variance application was for a one-family dwelling located at 112 Laramie Avenue. The property is zoned as a one-family dwelling, but the applicant wants to build a two-family dwelling on the property.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

The Southside High School Board and community would like to thank you and all other Southside residents who helped our city in the President's Challenge.

Our performance at Lula Belle White Shopping Center was not perfect. However, most of the students and faculty worked hard and we learned a lot. The President's Challenge is an important event for our city.

The city was not as well organized as we had hoped. However, we are looking forward to next year's event.

Thank you again.

Sincerely,

People’s powers proposed for all municipalities in New Jersey

Article 6 of the New Jersey Constitution would be greatly improved with a system that would empower municipal governments to make decisions on a local level.

The system would be similar to the state’s current system, but with more local control. Municipal governments would have the power to make decisions on matters such as zoning, public safety, and education.

This system would ensure that decisions are made in the best interest of the local community and that residents have a say in how their community is run.

We urge you to support this important proposal.

Sincerely,

James Evers addresses seniors about 'power of attorney'

James Evers, a dedicated attorney and a member of the Parker County Bar Association, addressed seniors at the May 17 meeting of the Newkirk Golden Harvesters on the importance of having a power of attorney.

Evers emphasized the importance of preparing for the unforeseen by establishing a power of attorney. He explained that a power of attorney allows a person to appoint someone else to make decisions on their behalf in the event they become unable to do so themselves. Evers encouraged seniors to consider the following key points:

1. Choose a responsible and trustworthy person to act on your behalf.
2. Document your wishes clearly in the power of attorney.
3. Consider setting up a durable power of attorney if you anticipate the need for ongoing decision-making.
4. Update your power of attorney periodically as your circumstances change.

Evers concluded by encouraging seniors to take proactive steps to protect their interests and ensure their wishes are fulfilled.

In the tradition of fair law principles

Since May 1 was Law Day and the week of May 15 to 21 is Police Week, this is a good time to reflect on the role of law enforcement officials in today's society. We present here a real-life account in defense of complaints that police officers are corrupt or that prosecutors will do anything to get a conviction. The contact of Pasco County's Assistant Prosecutor Alan James demonstrates how the majority of law enforcement officials consistently attempt to do justice.

During a trial on armed robbery charges, Assistant Prosecutor Alan James began to have some doubts as to the guilt of the defendant. The complaining witnesses testified that the defendant, age 19, had been dressed in white clothing the day before the holding. The defendant and the boy were wearing a white T-shirt. The complaining witnesses were white. The defendant was black. The complaining witnesses were overheard to say after he left the stand, "Well, they all look alike.

After the defense notified, Assistant Prosecutor Alan James called the Pasco Police Department and learned that the defendant was arrested onamon after the holding wearing a white T-shirt. Also, at the request of the police, they brought this fact to the attention of the trial. The defendant was quickly acquitted.

Judge Schwarz, who presided over the trial, complimented Assistant Prosecutor James for his actions and stated that such conduct is in the best tradition of honest and fair law enforcement.

Transfer: educationally sound

Mr. John Pappas, President
North School Board
Hawthorne, New Jersey
Dear Mr. Pappas:

Having received the report of the Special Education Committee of the Board of Education of May 2, 1977, I would like to offer my reaction to the conclusion of the North School Board's recommendation.

I agree that schools should accommodate our educationally handicapped. It is true that the new educational method in the use of the transfer system, which is a sound concept, is a controversial issue.

The concept of the transfer system is that children with handicaps are unable to proceed on an integrated basis. As such, it is logical that the North School Board must present this concept to the community.

Sincerely yours,

Sarah J. Beilman

Passaic County representatives: Assemblymen on opposite sides

The two Passaic County representatives to the New Jersey State Assembly, Robert Roe and Louis A. Marsilio, are on opposite sides of the legislation on opposition to the war in Vietnam. In the past, the two have worked together on other issues, but now they are divided over the bill. Mr. Roe, a Democrat, has introduced a bill to extend the war in Vietnam. Mr. Marsilio, a Republican, has introduced a bill to end the war in Vietnam.

Social Security reps available as speakers

In a move to help local banks meet the needs of older people, the Passaic County Federation of Women's Clubs has invited Social Security representatives to speak at its meetings. The representatives will be available to answer questions about Social Security benefits and to help with applications.

Teen action group holds car wash

The Teen Action Group of the Passaic County Federation of Women's Clubs held a car wash to raise money for the local food bank. The group sold tickets and washed cars for the people who bought tickets.

The Golden Harvesters, an all-female dance troupe, performed at the car wash. The proceeds will be used to support the local food bank.
School questionnaire sent home to borough parents

Questions regarding the practical needs and plan of the expansion in the borough have been sent to parents this week through the mail. It is hoped that the Board of Education will have received a sufficient number of responses on time so that a committee can render a report.

There is a similar questionnaire for parents of students in the nursery school for the Pre-K and kindergarten classes. The parents are to complete the questionnaire and submit it to the Pre-K and kindergarten classes.

Adjustment Board grants use variance for 2-family

The Adjustment Board has granted a variance for a 2-family dwelling in the Seaside Heights area. The variance was granted for the construction of a 2-story addition to an existing single-family home. The addition will consist of two bedrooms, a bathroom, and a kitchen.

Drug use charged

A youth was charged with drug use in the borough. The youth has been arrested and is currently in custody. The youth's name has not been released at this time. The charges are related to possession and distribution of controlled substances.

Sugars and calories

The School Committee has initiated a campaign to reduce the amount of sugary drinks and calorie-dense foods in the school cafeteria. The goal is to reduce the consumption of sugary drinks by 20% and to reduce the consumption of calorie-dense foods by 15%.

St. Anthony School News

The next meeting of the St. Anthony School PTO is scheduled for May 15th. The meeting will be held at 7:00 PM in the school cafeteria. All parents are encouraged to attend. The agendas will include updates on school events, fundraising activities, and upcoming school events.

Voucher system would cause more chaos

As if there isn't enough chaos in New Jersey education, now the state legislature has come up with a voucher system that would add to the turmoil. The bill, known as S-3666, would allow a referendum on the November ballot as follows: "Shall the Legislature be deemed to establish a voucher system for elementary and secondary education?"

It sounds simple enough, so simple, in fact, that we fear the majority of voters being unaware of what it means would vote "yes" or "no" just out of civic responsibility. Those who know what the bill entails might be attracted because it appears as a democratic reform. What it would do, in fact, is provide every voter with a blank check to reform the entire public school system (they say it will enroll their children).

Can you imagine the confusion that would result as school administrators had to compute students into their school? Can you visualize the frustration that would result in budgets, the loss of enrollment each year, the teaching problems, to name just a few.

Another problem is that these vouchers would also be available for parents of persons whose children presently attend private schools where on an average family is $1,000. The public schools would be lose 1,000 million the state profit in tuition to enroll each student at $751 each.

The Hawthorne Board of Education probably doesn't support this bill at the monthly meeting held last Tuesday. The New Jersey School Boards Association sent this piece of legislation calling it "an especially dangerous bill." We urge our readers to write their legislators to let them know their opinions on the fully proposed bill.

Putting Our House in Order

by John W. Goodwin

Sitting in the Oval Office with all the paraphernalia of power, a new President is faced with a problem that has proven impossible in previous attempts at getting the Executive Branch to work. After all, he has been offered a job where his performance will be evaluated on the basis of whether he can get the Executive Branch to work. The problem is not new, and the solution is not simple, but it is crucial to the success of any administration.

To tackle this challenge, the new President must first address the issue of efficiency and productivity within the Executive Branch. A review of the current system reveals several areas for improvement. By streamlining operations and eliminating unnecessary layers of bureaucracy, the new President can create a more efficient and productive environment.

Next, the President must focus on building a strong team. This involves selecting capable and dedicated individuals for key positions and ensuring that they work well together. A cohesive and committed team is essential for achieving success.

Finally, the President must establish clear goals and priorities. By setting achievable objectives and creating a roadmap for progress, the new President can guide the Executive Branch towards success.

These steps require a significant effort, but with determination and a willingness to make changes, the new President can turn the Executive Branch into a force for good. The success of the new President's administration will depend on their ability to effectively manage the Executive Branch and create a productive and efficient environment.

A former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare is appointed to the new President of Common Cause.

There is hardly any measure more crucial to a President's capacity to govern than the ability to manage the Executive Branch. The new President must work closely with the Executive Branch to ensure that it operates efficiently and effectively.

The President's ability to negotiate and build coalitions is also critical. By establishing strong relationships with key stakeholders, the new President can ensure that the Executive Branch is working towards the same goals.

Ultimately, the success of the Executive Branch depends on the President's leadership. With a clear vision, strong management skills, and a commitment to efficiency, the new President can ensure that the Executive Branch operates in a manner that is responsive to the needs of the American people.

It's time to separate the men from the boys

If one thing is clear from the meetings with Franklin and Washington Schools' parent's it's that confusion has no neighborhood school boundary. Although several explanations have been made about the proposed inter-school transfer, we believe that many parents do not understand how the energy will be of educational benefit to their children.

In addition to the confusion, we observed many expressions of anger and frustration that although parents are equal taxpayers in the borough of Hawthorne, the children of residents in one area do not receive equal educational benefits. Over and over, we heard parents say, "If facilities and benefits are inferior at Washington and Franklin, why has the school board allowed this to occur?" It is a question that, we feel, has never been satisfactorily answered. The reply that funds are allocated on a per-student basis is only an excuse. It does not explain why capital improvements, tax in excess of 50 cents, have not been made in the smaller schools while many homes and media centers have been constructed in the others, especially Franklin.

While looking to the past may not have any bearing on the solution for the future, we feel it does give the board some insights into what the problem is. It is a good idea but parents want a commitment and they want it soon.

We think it's time to proceed with the plans for the middle school. Let the Board of Education declare a public hearing to outline details in the announcement of converting Roosevelt School or Lincoln School into a middle school facility. Let the whole town. Let's hear the pros and cons, all the scraping and the shouting. Let's decide whether this town really does oppose the middle school concept or whether the current inhabitants might welcome such a proposal.

Then technically the public pressure, let the school board members vote "yes" or "no" on either plan. Let's find out if there are even five who will forgo the language goal. It's time to separate the men from the boys. If the middle school will provide superior educational advantage and equalize the elementary school program in Hawthorne, maybe it should be given a try.

We think action is preferable to a lot of repetitive meetings in the next year all in the name of "research."

Girl scouts on weekend campout

Saturday-Even Scouts and adults recently spent a weekend at Big Darby, OH to celebrate Girl Scouts of America's 75th Anniversary. The group included scouts from the Locust Fork Area and also from the Locust Fork Valley. The trip was a chance for the girls to enjoy outdoor activities and learn about the organization.

Music, games, and fun were part of the weekend with workshops on topics such as camping, cooking, and outdoor survival. The girls also had the opportunity to explore the natural beauty of Big Darby, learning about the local flora and fauna.

The weekend concluded with a closing ceremony and a group photo. The girls eagerly looked forward to the next Girl Scout activity, knowing they would have more fun and learning experiences to share.
