"My new neighbor on the next street got a telephone but I'm still waiting"

Yes, that could happen for any one of several reasons. Your neighbor may have been ahead of you on the waiting list—his service may have been moved from a previous address—service for him may be essential to the war effort, or to public health, welfare and security, and accordingly would be provided promptly—or he may have qualified under War Production rules for preferential treatment because of serious illness or service in the Armed Forces.

Every need for essential service is being met, but with telephone factories producing at full capacity for war needs, the only facilities there are to care for pending applications are those released by present customers.

Those now waiting for service can be sure that they will be connected in proper turn as fast as disconnections permit.

PLANES

How many families will buy airplanes after the war? If you are one of those who question it should be the volume of production. The Bureau of Aeronautics, in the government and aviation associations, has a series of statements made by these authorities indicating that four million airplanes will be produced in the next five years. This is a big increase over the 1,000,000 airplanes produced in the last five years. The Bureau of Aeronautics, in a study of the "Aeronautics" published by the National Bureau of Standards, estimates that within five to ten years there will be 4,000,000 privately owned planes in this country, which is the high point of production. St. Paul, Minn., Washington representative of the Curtiss-Wright corporation, gives the conservative low estimate of 2,000,000 planes. The National Resources Planning Board estimates 2,000,000, while Charles J. Stanton, chief aeronautics administrator, thinks there will be 20,000 private planes in active service within four years after the end of the war. It is not clear if this is a five-year or ten-year agreement. Practically all the planes now in use are available in the field to 20,000 private planes. Meeting an probable price reduction, Andrew Kueber, director of research of Bendix Aviation, said: "In 1945, automobiles cost $1,125 per pound, whereas in 1944, the price of a much better and more complete auto was in the range of $1 to 40 cents per pound. An aircraft manufacturer undergoes a similar evolution. Its present cost of $10,000 to $15,000 class will drop to $2,500 to $3,000 in 1945."

SAFETY

The number of planes sold after the war will depend almost entirely on the public demand. There can be no real problem about quantity production of all the planes the people will buy with the plane-producing facilities we now have in this country.

For the public demand will be governed to a great extent by cost and safety—and that will be a production problem. Costs will undoubtedly come down rapidly and all sorts of safety devices have been invented which will make private planes much safer than they were before the war. William Piper, president of the Piper Aircraft corporation, one of the leading manufacturers of private planes, says: "The primary reason the plane will be practically fool proof, but not fool proof."

Perhaps we can never expect a plane which is "fool proof," but many people, who are now timid about venturing into the air, will want to see a long demonstration of safe flying before buying a plane.

Although the perfection of the use of the helicopter, according to the experts will take some time, it is being used with great popularity to private flying. I think most individuals look for the day when they can beam to fly in the way which W. Lawrence LaPage, president of the LaPage Aircraft company, says they will be able to do with the helicopter. He says: "A novice need only lift the machine a few inches off the ground at first, hover, move around and land. As he gains more confidence he will rise and fly. He will be able to land and take off in a few seconds. He will be able to land in a field, and judgment is his."

We Cannot Buy Peace And Good Will

It is pretty well understood that the generosity of America and her people too often runs into the mire for ahead of sober judgment. As an illustration that first thing must come first, we must reorganize our economic problems during the time to be planning the peace.

We already know that we cannot buy peace and good-will, with our money, or fine phrases, observed Eugene Castle at one of the civic and business clubs, before which he has been speaking throughout the country. He illustrated his position by describing the experience of the United Nations' Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

It was hounded with great fanfare because it was backed by a Government appropriation of one billion, three hundred and fifty million dollars of the American taxpayers. This benevolent scheme failed to hit the mark and according to Eugene Castle, big shot in the business world and likely the only campaigner who doesn't want a political job.

The President of Castle Films suggests that this work should be increased during the immediate post war period to an enlarged Red Cross entirely free from any political direction or manipulation. He thinks the government and peoples in foreign lands should look up and "get going on their own" because we at home will have all we can do in looking after our own people when they are returning to their homes. The World Bank plan appears to most thinking people a fearful prospect, and Eugene Castle thinks so too, because he believes that the United States will be a confuser instead of a stabilizer in the world of monetary affairs, and in the end Uncle Sam will lose more of his investments in the World Bank.

"Isn't it a real challenge to the brain to create and to manage the biggest war production machine on the face of the earth, and who in peacetime have the abilities to produce, to promote, and to sell more goods and services than any other country on earth—that these men apply their sterling abilities to sell America to Americans at the time of real crisis in our nation's history?"

The World Bank plan appears to most thinking people a fearful prospect, and Eugene Castle thinks so too, because he believes that the United States will be a confuser instead of a stabilizer in the world of monetary affairs, and in the end Uncle Sam will lose more of his investments in the World Bank.

YOU are the people

IN PLACE OF ABUSE AND HYSTERIA WE OFFER YOU SIMPLE TRUTH

The CIO-POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE was formed July, 1943, for two reasons: 1. To impress on the men and women of labor the critical importance of registering and voting. (There are 88,000,000 people in this country qualified to vote. Only 28,000,000 actually voted in the last national election—in 1942. We seek to avert a repetition of this minority rule in the momentous Presidential election of 1944. We must not have a minority President in the crucial days ahead.) 2. To educate our own 6,000,000 CIO members to the truth of the issues at stake in the coming elections.

The CIO-POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE is a 100% democratic organization. Its members were selected to represent their respective unions by the traditionally American process of being nominated and voted for. The Committee operates in an equally democratic way. It can no more be controlled by one man than can our U. S. House of Representatives in Washington.

The CIO-POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE has a clean record of functioning entirely within the laws. We operate in the light of day. The FBI and two Congressional committees have investigated us and given us a clean bill of health. That is why our enemies have been compelled to resort to wild claims, cheap smears, and even anti-Semitism, in their attacks on us.

Let it be said now, for the record, that we are peaceful, law-abiding citizens; that we believe in the American form of government; that we have no secret plans to control the world, the United States—or even our own ranks of labor. (Have you ever tried to "control" your neighbor when he separates—into the voting booth?)

And against their bitter, self-seeking minority, we shall be on Election Day, a vast majority of awakened Americans. This majority will march proudly and confidently to the polls to support the expanding economy, the full production, the full employment, the just and lasting peace being fought for—and won—under the leadership of FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT VOTE

You, maybe your vote is only a drop in the bucket, but if every drop were as big as yours, you would be a very big person. The vote is the most important thing in our democracy. It is the power that makes the government work. It is the power that makes the government responsible to the people. It is the power that makes the government what we want it to be.

TWO THANKSGIVINGS

There will be two Thanksgiving dinners this year. One will be on Thursday, November 23, and the other will be on Friday, November 24. This is a unique situation in our history. It is a situation that has never occurred before. It is a situation that is the result of the war. It is a situation that is the result of the fact that Thanksgiving is a movable feast. It is a situation that is the result of the fact that Thanksgiving is a holiday that is celebrated on the fourth Thursday of November.
