Ike and Dick Are Best Team for the Peace In Our Time

As the voters go to the polls on Tuesday, one thing remains paramount in the minds of all: Will peace continue? The answer is yes—with Eisenhower. One of our greatest military figures, he advocates as General Washington did, that the best insurance for peace is to be prepared for war.

Eisenhower's first term in office began with peace, because he carried out his pre-election pledge when he went to Korea, even before his inauguration, to carry out his peace mission. With his excellent military experience he brought about the way for an early peace.

Compare Eisenhower's record with that of his Democratic opponent, Adlai Stevenson, who advocates the discontinuance of H-bomb tests and of the draft. Have we not followed the course of unpreparedness before and allowed ourselves to be caught off-guard? The histories of World War I, World War II and the Korean War answer the question. Disarmament is good for the world, but first we should let the other nations do a military modern, and then we can follow; for the United States has never initiated an aggressive war since its birth.

Now, on the eve of election the clouds of war are again gathering. Does our President selfishly think of the campaign to return him to office or does he think of peace for our nation? Without hesitation he has cancelled campaign speeches in vital political areas, which may well cost him thousands of votes; so (Continued on Page 4)

Freeholder Kraft's Skyline Drive Plan Gets Response from High Officials

Freeholder Erwin O. Kraft, Republican candidate for reelection, told the GOP Veterans at a meeting that his plan to use a part of Skyline Drive for Route 208 when it is extended up-county has met with encouraging response from municipal and state officials.

Kraft first suggested the plan last October at a meeting on the proposed Bergen-Passaic expressway in a school in the Hillcrest section of Paterson. Since that time, Kraft said, several municipal officials have discussed the plan with him and have commented favorably on it. Kraft, who is chairman of this board's road committee, said that on a recent inspection of the proposed Route 208 route a State official also showed considerable interest in the plan.

Kraft said he will continue to explore this possibility in an effort to bring about the completion of Route 208. At the present time Route 208 ends at the Glen Rock link. It is scheduled to go all the way up county to Route 206, Newburgh.

Kraft also said that lastestimates from the New York State Department of Transportation show that the plan has been pouring into the county.

Canfield Names Candidate and Two Alternates

James B. Ventanoni, who will be Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ventanoni, 240 Livingston Street, Clifton, has been appointed to Ann Arbor Naval Academy by Representative Gordon Canfield.

Ventanoni, who will be 17 in January, was chosen by Congressman Canfield's Selection Board, as the candidate who excelled in leadership ability, aptitude and general character, requirements. All of the young men who passed the recent civil service tests for nomination to this board, which included John E. Lewis, department store executive, of Hawthorne; Miss Marjorie Cohen, personal director of Passaic; and Leonard Gabriel, Boy Scout executive in Little Rock, Ark.

Selected as alternates were Robert J. Jett, 200 1/2 St. Paul Avenue, North Haledon; and Charles V. Gruen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gruen, 13 Walnut Street, Tomspon Lakes.

Summers and Jones Deserve Re-election On Their Records

The public record of the county clerk and register of deeds is one of performance and not promise. County Clerk Floyd B. Jones and Register John C. Summers told a house party at the home of Joseph Aloni, 149 Pennington Road, Clifton, Wednesday night.

Jones said that service and courtesy are part of the public employees' code in his office, adding that "the public has the right to expect just that."

"People of Passaic County know by actual contact the type of service rendered by the staff of the register's office," Summers declared.

"We would like to emphasize again," Summers said, "that we have a record of performance behind us—not just promises."

Both Jones and Summers gave credit to their staffs for "the loyal services performed in behalf of good, honest government in Passaic County."

Good Record

One question to be decided, we believe is this: What has the Democratic candidate done during the past four years to convince the voters that he is better qualified for the presidency today than he was four years ago?

His stand on the H-bomb? Russia thinks this plan in his platform is fine.

His stand on the Draft? Russia agrees with that also. But they don't apply the same policy by abolishing their own army. To use this issue to garner the votes of mothers and dads by holding forth a false promise that the draft can be eliminated while the world is abuzz with rumors becomes one of the most fantastic and cruel issues of the campaign.

His stand on the Domestic economy of our country? The records show that never have the American people been better off economically in the history of the country than they are today.

And so the issues of the Democratic candidates for President in the searching light of truth flit to a great "Dud" in the weeks of campaign.

Even former President Harry Truman at the Democratic convention stated that Adlai Stevenson did not have the qualifications to lead this Nation for the next four years.

If the leader of the Democratic party only a few short months ago felt that Stevenson could not qualify then, what has been presented to the American people to qualify him now?

And so mindful of our duty as American citizens, we of this county urge the support of U.S. office official candidates, President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Vice President Richard Nixon and Congressman Gordon Canfield. Of our great president, the record speaks for itself. He kept his promise and stopped the needless killing of American boys in Korea. Even those who would destroy the free nations of the world hold President Eisenhower in respect as a Man Who Knows the International problem and is striving for a permanent peace in an unsettled world today.

Economically he has converted this country from a wartime to a peace-time economy with the result that we suffered no "after a war" economic problem. He has proven one of the great leaders of our years as a Democracy and with God's help will open the gates to an even greater America.

We urge the support of President Eisenhower and his fine young running mate, Richard Nixon.

Now for the third member of the team—Congressman Gordon Canfield. Although his Democratic opponent has left no stone unturned to try in a forcible way to destroy the Congressional record of one of the finest American citizens that ever lived, Canfield's record has stood up during the assault like the Rock of Gibraltar.

During the years, residents of Hawthorne have grown to love and admire their Congressman. They know him as a great humanitarian, never too big in his office to extend a helping hand to those who need it, no matter what their color, creed or political affiliation might be. Gordon Canfield has represented Hawthorne and his district ably and we feel that again this year Hawthorne will again support President Eisenhower by sending back to Congress Gordon Canfield, one of the President's staunchest supporters in Washington.

At the county level we must again review the records. In Erwin Kraft and Mrs. Ida Marotta the Republican party has avoided the pitfall of picking "popularity" candidates which political parties are sometimes prone to do.

The Republican party have chosen Erwin Kraft and Mrs. Ida Marotta solely on their merits as representative citizens who are more than capable of doing the kind of job that will benefit the taxpayers of Passaic County. Their experience in civil life, their earnest efforts to serve their people make them ideal candidates. Their records justify the support that they will receive in Hawthorne. The election of Erwin Kraft and Mrs. Ida Marotta as Freeholders on the Republican ticket will be a step for "Continued Good County Government."

For Register of Deeds John Summers has proven himself a faithful and loyal servant of the people.

For County Clerk Floyd Jones has given the same measure of service. Both have saved the taxpayers many thousands in tax dollars and by their past records deserve the support of the citizens of our Borough.

And so we have presented our reasons for supporting the Republican ticket this year.

Whether you agree with these thoughts or not, we urge you to vote on November 6.

N.J. State Chiefs Of Police Plan A Special Course

Dem. Freeholder Candidates Want Upstairs Gov't

Basement government in Passaic County can only end with the election of a Democratic Board of Freeholders, A. Michael Guida said at a meeting in Democratic headquarters.

He praised the only Democratic candidate for the office of Freeholder, Mrs. Ida Marotta, as a "housewife" in political circles until last February when Freeholder Blatte S. Doremus announced (Continued on Page 3)

Representative Gordon Canfield, Republican incumbent, who seeks re-election to his ninth term in the Congress of the United States has a background of 22 years on Capitol Hill, 17 as secretary to the late Congressman George N. Seger and 16 as a Congressman in his own right.

During his years in the Congress, Canfield has been in the forefront on legislation affecting the welfare of his constituents and the security of the nation. As member of the House Appropriations Committee he sponsored amendments which made possible three build-ups in the strength of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, resulting that department to add to its agents abroad, tracking down narcotics peddlers at the source and strengthening its forces at home. A special branch office of the Bureau was established in the City of Paterson at Congressman's request, thereby safeguarding this area from this insidious evil.

Congressman Canfield sponsored the Flammable Fabrics Act that banned from the marketplace such items as "explosive" sweaters and flammable cowboy suits, protecting the lives of men, women and children from these dangerous, death-dealing articles of clothing.

Canfield has been a leader in Congress for a strong national and civil defense. He sponsored flood insurance legislation, increased social security benefits, housing for low income families with special consideration for the elderly and he has been a leader in such areas as veterans affairs, medical research, stockpiling of strategic materials, civil rights and social security.

His career has been marked by an emphasis on personal service and he has given full time to this work. Although a member of the legal profession, and the standing contribution made by the Catholic youth organizations and programs.

Ida Marotta, Freeholder Candidate, A Budget Expert, Who Knows Figures

A success story that began with a high school graduation in 1929 is being written in Passaic County politics today about a comely 34-year-old Totowa Borough woman.

Seventeen years ago, the graduation class at Central High School voted a girl champion as one of those most likely to succeed. Today, the prophecy has not only been proven correct, but training schools of this type which will be conducted throughout the state under the co-sponsorship of the New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police and the various county police chiefs associations, instructors for the schools, he said, will be provided by the (Continued on Page 3)

HHS Football Team Loses to Passack High by 27-14 Score

Hawthorne High School, still unable to get on the win trail predicted for it at the beginning of this season, lost its fourth half game Saturday, the third in succession, to Passack Valley Regional High, 27-14.

It was the fourth win in six tries for a fine, young Passack ball club in only its second year of competition.

Hawthorne scored first, early in the opening period, but that was as far as it went. Performing efficiently at times, slugging at others, the Bear grid machine never got off the ground and trailed from the last minute on place kicks, for Passack.

Hawthorne's last score came late in the third period. Starting on the 50, Janssen picked up 10 yards over left tackle, 9 clipping the penalty against Passack moved the ball to the Passack 25.

A Janssen to Lasterman aerial was good for five yards. Janssen arrived twice and reached the 16 yard line. An official penalty against Passack put the ball on the 11. Solid tested his right end and scored. Janssen's kick made it 20-14.

A Hawthorne fumble set up Passack's final tally. Three-quarterers of the way through the fourth period, Passack moved down to the Bear's six. Hawthorne stiffened and took over on downs. On its second play, Said fumbled. Passack recovered and sent Beasletin over on the first play. Ellin's successful kick ended the day's scoring at 27-14.

A 60-year-old widow was trying to prove to an interviewer at the Paterson social security office how old she was. She showed a birth certificate. It did not agree with other records for her.

The certificate was based on an affidavit by a friend who said under oath that he knew the widow was born on such and such date. When the friend was asked how he knew that to be the right date, he said that the widow herself provided the information.

"She told me how old she was and I supposed she knew," the date turned out to be wrong by two years. Fearing again to be a problem, even when there is a public record of the date, the social security office in Paterson is at 246 Market Street.

for property—a question discussed in detail in a publication "It's Your Business" No. 29) is as good as a public by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

The other constitutional amendment of the county sheriff from three to five years. This would place the sheriff the same term of office as now enjoyed by two other "constitutional officers"—the county clerk and the surrogate.

The office of sheriff can be traced back into early Anglo-Saxon history when the head man of the English "shire" was the "reeve," appointed by the king. He was chief law enforcement officer and representative of the king's courts as well as pater and protector. With the passage of time, "shire-reeve" contracted to "sheriff." Responsibilities of the office have been changed by changing times and growth of the police function at other levels of government.

Transplanted to America, the sheriff was a figure on the official county seal in New Jersey.

A full century before the Revolution, the first New Jersey Constitution in 1776 provided for an annual election of the sheriff with a limit of three successive one-year terms in office, after which he could serve again. A century later the term was extended to three years by constitutional amendment. At the Constitutional Convention of 1947 three, four and five-year terms were discussed. As subsequently adopted the new Constitution continued the three-year term, but eliminated the ban against immediate self-re-election.

CLOTHES SHRINKING?
Unusually death-stalks the over-fed even more relentlessly than Lose who do not have enough to eat. In the words of America's best-known physician, Dr. Paul Dudley White, of Boston, too much to eat may play "even more lethal" role in the destiny of the world than famine.

Dr. White expressed these sentiments to the European Congress of Cardiology at its recent Stockholm meeting, but his words mean more here at home than anywhere else in the world. In America, where no one ever "had it so good" heretofore—what with labor-saving devices, shorter hours, individual transportation, more money for food and richer foods within the reach of all—10 million of us are overweight! And overweight, as any life insurance underwriter knows, is an invitation to countless complications that shorten our days in a land that has, perhaps, created too much to eat may play "even more lethal" role in the destiny of the world than famine.

Next to Dr. White, one of our best authorities on the subject is Dr. H. H. Erickson, of Chicago, who makes those cannot-tell-it-by-Borg scales that are so inaccurate that none of his customers can deceive himself (or herself) by a single pound when the spring-pole gets out of line. We have heard mid-aged citizens explaining how the curbs are higher than they used to be and how the dry-cleaners are shrinking their clothes, so we realize the truth is much too delicate for a mere editor—and give you Mr. Erickson.

"No one," he says, "gains weight perceptibly overnight. It is a gradual, cumulative process, but somehow the realization is not accurate as the one in your doctor's office, and weigh yourself as frequently as you brush your teeth in the morning."

"If you know when you put on the first excess pound, it is easy to take it off," says Mr. Erickson. "But if you suddenly discover that your winter clothes are too tight, it's time to face facts. It's time to decide whether or not you like it around here—and if so, it's time to start regaining that lissome figure."

There's no point in mentioning here how to reduce. We suspect that to wear that one should lose more than two pounds a week. Thus, a good scale is more important than ever in checking weight reduction day by day.

But, whether you are maintaining your health or regaining it, believe that scale. And step on it every day! This is the only game in which it's fun to be a peeper.

A magazine article by Paul Hoffman, head of the Fund for the Republic, former foreign affairs administrator and a protégé of the White House, has put his benefactor on a hot seat—and as an awkward time. Mr. Hoffman allowed in his contribution to the "New Republic" that there is no place in the "new" Republican party for the likes of Senators McCarthy, Jenner and Malone.

Asked at his press conference whether he agreed with these views, Hoffman said that he had no power to remove any Senator from the Senate. He said that he did not agree with him on many things, and he did not look to them for support in the program he thinks are for the good of the nation.

Mr. Hoffman, from his critic's perch, also took a disclaimer of Senator Goldwater and Schuberger, but indicated in his essay that the President was hoping GOP Senator Leader Knowland might release their Old Guard estimation. Queried about this, President Eisenhower said that he can't win over all that he can.

It is true the President has said that his Administration has given the Republican Party "a new direction," but we do not recall that he has ever claimed there is any such thing as a "new" Republican Party. If, indeed, there is such a thing, these must be the "old" Republicans. "There are indications now, however, that the trend has changed and that we may return to colder weather. Historically, these warm and cool periods have been roughly for 100 years duration and the temperature changes have been of about the same magnitude."

"By joining the ranks of the 'astronauts' and by also considering some apparent statistical relationships of solar activity to weather-climate have not been established physically, I will predict, with tongue in cheek, that the next decade will be a cold one, with a rapid return to the snows that grandeur recalls."

President Eisenhower assured his press conference that the changes that U.S. policy on the subject of the canal should be a fair share of the profits.

The pity is that Britain and France haven't seemed to know about this.

He said that the anthracite industry, which has been a leading force in the fight to win over all that he can.

Today, Auenbrugger's "finger-tapping" technique is a routine part of every thorough physical examination.

Indicative of the interests of his constituents and the pulse of the District he represents, a Congressman usually regards his mail as important in alerting him to sentiment on Federal issues within the home district as the War & Navy values the aid of radar as a means of tracking tomorrow's weather.

And while Congressional mail is likely to cover the entire field of human viewpoint, need and emotion, one of the most vital areas is the Federal fiscal problem. Following long study, the Taxpayers Association summarized the fiscal need in a 1957 program which calls for "sound federal finance through (1) a balanced budget, and improved congressional facilities to study and set Halfway around the world in a state during this time with quarters and expense accounts.

During the trial, Schmidt denied that he had been in the United States during the time that the prosecution had demanded the death penalty. Eight days before the trial, Schmidt was arrested in London.

But, unless a non-claiming of police methods and court procedures is ordered, this chronicle of vindictiveness seems destined to go on and on. For there are plenty more Dutch nationalities behind the bars to furnish a long succession of Jungkhaeher and Schmidt extrajudicial.

Most incompressible of all, perhaps, is the fact that these affronts to justice, decency and humanity occurred in the struggling Washington but May—who was extended the rare privilege of addressing a joint session of Congress, and received from our lawmakers a standing ovation! Official action by Mr. Sukarno to justify the confidence Americans asked a 15 year sentence, but the judge—who acts as jury too, gave Schmidt life imprisonment. There will be an appeal, we are told, but that will be conducted behind closed doors. Now will there be a jury in this court.

Chapter one of this smelly saga involved the similar two year incarceration and trial of Captain Leon Jungkhaeher for whom the prosecution had demanded the death penalty. Eight days before the trial, Schmidt was arrested in London.

TB Can Effect Health, Life or Economic Status

Tuberculosis affects the health, life or economic status of every person in New Jersey today. Each person in the state has among his family, friends or circle of acquaintances someone who either has the disease or whose body harbors the germ and who is a potential victim. The effects are also felt in the rising taxes caused by spiraling costs of medical facilities, public assistance and in the lowered buying power resulting from the lowered income of the many victims of TB.

Facts bear out these statements. In 1935, there were 6,662 newly reported cases of tuberculosis in New Jersey. This means that the case, whether active or inactive, had never before been discovered or reported. In 1931, for instance, there were only 3,246 newly discovered cases. Of equal importance are the untold numbers of persons with tuberculosis in the state who are not aware that they have the disease. These "unknown" cases are endangering the health and lives of both themselves and those with whom they come in contact while they remain undetected.

Nationwide tests point out the fact that approximately 1 out of every 3 persons has the tubercle bacillus, the germ which causes tuberculosis, in their body. In most cases, this germ is successfully isolated and in no way affects the health of the individual. However, the bacilli might be activated, causing disease, by any lowering of body resistance. The one real victory over tuberculosis is the declining death rate. This had progressed to the stage where the deaths from TB no longer indicated the seriousness of the problem in the state. Therefore, the report from the New Jersey State Department of Health that there were 370 deaths reported in 1935 as compared to 558 in 1934 came as a distinct blow. Whether this is a temporary phenomenon or whether it has some darker meaning only time will tell.

Costs of tuberculosis, and the resulting taxes, are steadily rising. It is estimated that approximately $700,000,000 was spent on tuberculosis in the United States last year. The tuberculosis problem in New Jersey is grim, but it is no longer hopeless. Doctors know how to cure, or at least how to arrest TB. Almost every case can be helped if the disease is detected early enough. The medical profession, voluntary and official health and welfare agencies and your county, state and national tuberculosis associations, which are supported solely through the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale, are cooperating to provide a good tuberculosis control program for everyone.

HEALTH, EDUCATION AND WELFARE

Trying to remember your social security number is a tricky business," says Stanley J. Fiorini, district manager of the Paterson social security office.

Experts in memory research are finding that your memory is no better today than that of an average citizen of ancient Greece. In early Greece, before there were town clerks and county recorders to keep records, the business man in town was the professional "rememberer" who was paid to remember various transactions and details. Today, too, there are firms which remind their customers of birthdays, anniversaries, business and social engagements.

Psychologists are finding that some people remember better than others and, generally, women remember better than men. There have always been songs with amazing memories. No wonder could remember thousands of names and during battles remembered the exact placement of hundreds of his army's artillery pieces. Barthold Niebuhr, a Prussian historian and banker, immediately set up from memory all 1800 of his bank's accounts after the bank burned down destroying all records.

Now, as a boy, wrote down the complete score of a lengthy entire after hearing it once. The English author, Lord Macaulay, could memorize and repeat a complete book after one reading. A complete book after one reading, Echel Barrymore got her big chance when a stage manager discovered she had memorized every part in his play and could step into the leading-lady role immediately. Toscanini was "discovered" the night he substituted for another conductor on a few minutes' notice. He memorized the score of each opera he played because his eyesight was too poor to depend upon the written score. Winston Churchill has memorized two-hour speeches on several occasions. James Farley said at one time he could call 50,000 persons by their first names.

A German scientist, Hermann Ebbinghaus, in 1885, conducted the first recorded memory experiment. He found that 40 per cent of what we try to remember is forgotten in 20 minutes and 70 per cent forgotten within a week. Experiments today prove about the same.

The most difficult things to remember, psychologists find, are numbers. Numbers, they say, are difficult because they lack concrete meaning. A noted University of Chicago psychologist found in experiments that only the most superior adults can repeat eight numbers backwards after hearing the number once. One of the numbers most persons believe they remember is their social security number. The Social Security Administration's experience has been that account numbers given from memory are too often incorrect. Psychologists have some favorite rules for remembering numbers, but rather than expect everyone to learn and practice such rules, the Social Security Administration has issued an account number card to each person who had made an application for a social security number.

hundreds of taxpayers from many parts of the state took time from their work-day world occupations recently as problems at the several levels of government were placed under the microscope of citizen examination.

A national highlight of the day program of the 26th Annual Meeting of the New Jersey Taxpayers Association was a thorough-going discussion of the national defense program.

At a session titled "The Taxpayers Dollar in State and Local Government," a panel discussion of "Effective Citizen Action in Homeowners" developed case histories of organized taxpayer activities in fields of budget study at municipal and county levels, State Police for streamlining methods used in distributing clothing and equipment to troops.

An imposing milestone along the lengthening trail of organized citizen contribution to the functioning of government was the report "Water Policy or the Garden State" prepared by the Taxpayers Association following a two-year study and submitted at the Annual Meeting. Pointing out that "no state policy or program should be determined without a balanced consideration of all related factors," the report suggests principles to be followed in the fields of growth, responsibility for action and State planning, development and financing in achieving an adequate water supply.

At the meeting, the report was presented by its author, Mr. J. H. Wilgus of New Jersey, achieving an adequate water supply.
