EDITORIAL

School board session — orderly, democratic.

Tuesday's meeting of the Board of Education was a refreshing change from the "moo gilla gak"meetings spread out in the name "public meeting." The most significant observation about this session was that board members disagreed radically on the issues of a proper manager, yet conducted their discussion in a orderly, professional manner. When the vote was over, a 3-4 decision, the school board president announced his four favorite themes for the next one proposed his viewpoint.

Since then, we have heard other comments that board members on both sides of the issue praised the board members and accepted the decision of the majority in democratic fashion.

Another suprising fact we noticed concerned the action of the trustees, who had the decisive vote in this case. It's often said that it takes a newly-elected trustee a few months to learn the ropes. But in this case, the new trustees learned how to work very fast. Perhaps that's why some board members felt the new trustees were not prepared for this decision. Nevertheless, it's reassuring to see that the trustees are learning quickly. We hope the new trustees will continue to be involved in the decision-making process and help to bring about positive changes in the school system.

Political system -

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The citizens of Hawthorne have always shown their support for the Hawthorne Press and the North Halsted News. We are grateful for the services they have provided over the years.

The political system in Hawthorne is unique. Due to the city's small size and the close relationship between the citizens and their representatives, it is easier for us to understand and participate in the decision-making process. The council members are elected by the people directly, which means that they are accountable to the voters. This system has proven to be effective and efficient in addressing the needs of the community.

Sincerely,

Letters to the Editor

Firemen, policemen thanked

Dear Editor:

I was so happy to hear this morning on the radio that the firemen and policemen are being honored by the Board of Education. I am sure all the children, parents, and people who work for our schools feel the same; they do such a great job helping our children and keeping us safe. We should all be grateful to them.

Sincerely,

Is vivisection necessary?

Dear Editor:

I have been researching the topic of vivisection for a school project. I understand that it is used in medical research to develop new treatments and cures. However, I am concerned about the ethical implications of this practice. Is there a way to perform the necessary research without using animals? Would you agree that there are alternatives to vivisection?

Sincerely,

A Msrs Age In Thanksgiving

Bread, football games, turkey dinners, church services—all are part of the traditional observance of Thanksgiving. As we join in any one of these traditional observances, let us join together in gratitude for the many things which have been bestowed upon us.

Our families and friends, our community, our state, our county, our country, and our beautiful country for which we have a heritage of freedom and progress have brought us to this day.

Drivers - beware of leaves

In the waning months, vehicles' brakes are plagued by brake shoes. Now that the weather is milder, there's another type of menace causing numerous alerts - leaf firms.

Other suburbs, like Hawthorne, are also having problems in the leaf traps. As many other communities leaf collection is starting, don't let the leaves get in the way for sewers and industrial wastes, caused by municipal workers.

The biliny waves of brown leaves present a temptation to mischievous youngsters, who seek fun in piling the dry leaves into flames. We think parents need to remind their children of the dangers of these fires and all types of fire.

An additional warning is issued for motorists. Our highways are not the only one when leaves and a packed car combine is a potentially dangerous to the most cases. Firemen put out the fires before gas tanks could explode. Late-night fires with multiple victims are even more impossible to see when parked over leaves.

We hope leaf collection in our borough will speed up to eliminate these hazards. We also suggest some planning and preparation to warn our young people of the dangers of playing near the leaf piles.

How much life insurance is enough?

How much life insurance is enough?

How much life insurance is enough?

The money you leave behind after you die can provide financial stability for your family. However, choosing the right amount of life insurance can be a challenging task. To determine how much life insurance you need, consider the following factors:

1. Financial obligations: Consider the financial obligations you have, such as mortgage payments, child support, and college education expenses. Make sure the life insurance policy you choose will cover these expenses.

2. Family needs: Think about the needs of your family members, such as their future education expenses and any other expenses they may have.

3. Income replacement: Life insurance can provide income replacement for your family in the event of your death. Consider how much income your family would need to live comfortably and choose a policy that provides that amount.

4. Age and health: Younger and healthier individuals may require less life insurance than older and less healthy individuals. Consider your age and health when determining how much life insurance you need.

5. Budget: Life insurance is an investment, so make sure you can afford to pay the premiums without sacrificing other expenses.

6. Future income: Consider your future income and any potential changes in your financial situation.

Once you have considered these factors, you can make an informed decision about how much life insurance you need to protect your family's financial security.
