Twelve cases postponed in local court

As reported in the local court, twelve cases were postponed in the Municipal Court last week. The cases were postponed due to various reasons, including the unavailability of judges or juries. The court is scheduled to resume its work next week, and additional cases may be postponed based on the availability of court resources.

Board denies variance for stairway outside a garage

At its September 11 meeting, the Board of Adjustment of Bound Brook denied an appeal to a variance for a stairway outside a garage at the 601 Main Street property. The board reported that the proposed stairway would not be in compliance with the current zoning regulations. The property owner, however, plans to appeal the decision to the local court in an attempt to get the variance approved.

Equalized ratables increase as equalization ratio decreases

The local board of assessors met to review and adjust the equalization ratios for the upcoming tax year. The board determined that the equalization ratio for the county will decrease, resulting in an increase in equalized ratables for property owners. This is due to the decrease in the ratio, which is used to calculate property values for tax purposes.

Uninsured truck case being appealed to county court

By Marc Wadlow

A Paupers Petition for Support filed on behalf of a former Municipal Court employee, Eileen Snodgrass, has been filed in Rock County Circuit Court and appealed to the County Court for decision. The case involves a dispute between the former employee and the County, alleging that she was not paid for work performed.

Ms. Snodgrass worked at the Municipal Court for several years but was laid off in 2000 due to budget cuts. According to her petition, she was not paid for the work she did while employed and is seeking back pay from the County.

The case was transferred to the County Court after the Municipal Court rejected her request for a hearing. Ms. Snodgrass is seeking $25,000 in damages, including lost wages and other expenses.

The County has yet to respond to the petition, and a hearing has not been scheduled.

Guilty verdict for bachelor party fight

By Michael Wadlow

A man who was found guilty of second-degree reckless endangerment in connection with a bachelor party fight will be sentenced next month. The defendant, John Doe, 28, of Madison, was convicted after a jury found him guilty of the charge.

Doe, who was a guest at the bachelor party, got into an altercation with another partygoer, resulting in a fight that led to injuries. The victim was taken to the hospital and received stitches for a laceration to the head.

The case was tried before Judge Jane Smith, who presided over the trial. Smith found Doe guilty after hearing evidence from witnesses and viewing video footage of the incident.

The sentence will be announced at a later date, but it could range from a fine to probation or even imprisonment.

The winner of the best truck case was awarded $500 in prize money and a plaque.

The event was held at the Rock County Fairgrounds in Janesville and featured a variety of truck displays from local dealerships.

The winning truck was a 2010 Ford F-350, which was entered by the Janesville Truck Club. The club was recognized for its efforts in promoting truck events and educating the public about the importance of safe driving.

The event also featured a truck Pull, where participants competed to see who could pull the heaviest load.

The winner of the truck Pull was a team from the Rock County Sheriff's Department.

The event was sponsored by several local businesses, including the Rock County Chamber of Commerce and the City of Janesville.

Bears trounce Passaic Tech 34-7 Friday

By Gail Ocampo

Passaic Tech High School quarterback Joe Kelly was a nightmare for the Westfield defense Friday night. Kelly completed 10 of 17 passes for 180 yards and ran for 34 yards and a touchdown. He also threw two interceptions.

The Westfield defense was able to hold Kelly to just 180 yards passing, but that wasn't enough to stifle the Passaic Tech offense. The Bears scored 34 points on the night, while Westfield managed only 7.

The game started off with a bang for Passaic Tech, as they scored on their first possession. Joe Kelly completed a 34-yard pass to wide receiver John Smith for a touchdown. The extra point attempt was successful, giving Passaic Tech a 7-0 lead.

In the second quarter, Passaic Tech added another touchdown to their lead. This time, it was running back Mark Taylor who found the end zone for a 14-0 lead. The extra point was successful once again.

The third quarter saw Passaic Tech add two more touchdowns to their lead. First, Kelly completed a 53-yard pass to wide receiver Mike Jackson for a touchdown. The extra point was good, and Passaic Tech led 21-0.

In the fourth quarter, Passaic Tech closed out the game with another touchdown. This time, it was running back John Smith who crossed the goal line. The extra point was successful, and Passaic Tech won the game 34-7.

Overall, the Westfield defense had a tough night. They only managed to hold Kelly to 180 yards passing, but that wasn't enough to stifle the Passaic Tech offense. The Bears scored 34 points on the night, while Westfield managed only 7.

The loss drops the Westfield defense to a record of 1-2. They'll have to regroup quickly if they want to have any chance of making the playoffs this year.

Corpsmen, committee predict slowdown

In about half
A slowdown between the strike-wracking news of the William & Mary fraternity has been the subject of a recent report by the National Association of College Fraternity Presidents. The report, which was released in 1977, has sparked a controversy among university administrators. The report suggests that the problem is not confined to the frat system but is a broader issue of campus life.

The National Association of College Fraternity Presidents has expressed concern about the problem in recent months, as there have been increased efforts by administrative bodies to address the issue.

Although the report has been praised for raising awareness of the issue, it has also been criticized for overemphasizing the problem.

The report has also been met with some resistance from university administrators, who argue that the problem is not as prevalent as the report suggests.

The ambulance corps should not be a one-man show

We are outraged by the figures reported on the front page that reveal a startling disparity in the ambulance corps. The figures presented are not only shocking but also wholly unacceptable. The discrepancy in the number of calls answered by the corps is unprecedented. The statistics show a significant drop in the number of emergency calls handled by the corps, yet the number of ambulance services available has remained constant. This is a clear indication of the need for a more equitable distribution of resources and personnel within the corps.

The argument that one man can handle an entire corps is flawed. This assumption disregards the complexity and urgency of emergency situations. Each call requires a skilled and trained team to respond effectively. The role of an ambulance service is not limited to transportation; it involves critical assessment, stabilization, and safe transport. A one-man show may not provide the necessary support and resources required to handle emergencies adequately.

We urge the management of the corps to consider alternative solutions to ensure a competent and responsive service. This could involve training additional personnel or reallocating resources to cover the increased call volume. The corps must prioritize the safety and well-being of the community it serves. We call for a comprehensive review of the current system to determine the most effective means of addressing these disparities.

The decision to publish the facts is not an easy one for us to make, especially since October is nationally recognized as Ambulance Corps Awareness Month. It is crucial that the public is informed about the challenges faced by the corps and the importance of supportive measures. We believe that by highlighting these issues, we can foster a constructive dialogue aimed at improving the service.

STATE SCENE

As reported in the Burlington County Times, Assistant County Prosecutor Yvonne D. Pilcher-Parodi has filed a complaint against New Jersey Secretary of State Sylvester J. Walsh that claims he didn't end a multi-year project to simplify state-oriented decisions. The move is being seen as a bold attempt to correct the ongoing problems faced by the state's bureaucracy.

As reported in the New York Times, the state's Department of Transportation has failed to meet its goals of improving road conditions. The report highlights the need for increased funding and better planning to address the ongoing issues.

Prospect Park Patter

As for Mayor

"There's no special reason the mayor wants to have four or six or two or eight or whatever it is. It's just the way it is," said political consultant Tom Normore, who has served as both a city councilman and a city council member.

In the first place, Mayor Nick did not say where the money would come from, but the chief of police, Chief Tom Vaccaro, and the councilman, Councilman Tom Warner, both said they would find a way to make it work.

Mayor Nick, who did not appear at the hearing, told the council that he would provide the council with a financial report on how the city was doing and how much money was left.

"The city has a budget deficit," said Mayor Nick. "We have to find a way to make it work."
John Alexander house proposed as teenage center

Prospect Park - The John Alexander house on North St. is being allocated to a teenage center by the Borough Council. The recent decision by the council to make the house a center is the result of a compromise of the demands of the community and the need for proper facilities for the sale of books and newspapers.

The decision to allocate the house was based on the understanding that the council would make some changes to the house to make it suitable for the purpose.

The possibility of having a store on the premises for the sale of books and newspapers was also discussed, but the council decided that the store would not be a part of the center.

Resource room proposed for borough schools

The council has decided to include a resource room in the new borough schools. The resource room will be used for special education programs.

Lincoln School conditions cited:

Parents protest playground conditions

By Mary Modell
Program and playground conditions at Lincoln School are a major source of concern to PTO members and teachers alike in that district. The parents periodically bring up the issues of overcrowded classrooms, lack of discipline, and the condition of the playground to the attention of the school board, and criticized by them. The teachers also agree that the playground needs improvement, and the parents have suggested that the board should consider making some changes. The school board has promised to look into the matter and take appropriate action.

They have been lucky so far that no child has been seriously injured.

Although several children have reported minor injuries on the playground, there have been no major accidents. The children have been warned not to climb on any equipment that appears to be in poor condition. Parents have also been informed of the dangers of playing on broken equipment. The school has implemented a safety program to ensure that children are properly supervised when playing.

Film review
A store of Love
Director: Tony Richardson
Starring: Leonardo DiCaprio and Liev Schreiber

Americans are going to have to accept the new Scorsese film as a store of Love primarily because of the profound impact of the film on the audience. The film’s success is due in part to the deft handling of the story and the way it is presented. The story concerns the life of a young man, played by Leonardo DiCaprio, who is a student at a New York City high school and the son of a prominent New York banker. The film explores the complex relationships between the characters and the social pressures they face. The film is a poignant reminder of the struggles of youth and the importance of understanding and accepting one another.

Dear Mr. Wilson,

I understand that the school district is planning to adopt a new school budget for the upcoming school year. As a member of the community, I believe it is important to be informed about the budget and its impact on the school district.

One concern I have is the allocation of funds for extracurricular activities. I believe that these activities are important for students' well-being and development. It is crucial that the budget includes sufficient funds to support these programs.

I urge you to consider these concerns and ensure that the budget is balanced and fair. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Mayor Blau clashes with school board

North Dakota - Mayor Blau of the small town of Blau, located in the northern part of the state, is clashing with the school board over the issue of school funding. Mayor Blau has accused the school board of misusing public funds, while the board has charged that the mayor is interfering with their duties. This is the first time in years that the mayor and the school board have had a public disagreement over the financial affairs of the town.

The Board of Education has denied all charges of misusing funds, and has called a special meeting for next week to discuss the matter further.

Mayor Blau has also threatened to seek a court injunction to stop the board from spending any more money on the school, saying that the board is ignoring the wishes of the citizens of Blau.

The dispute has raised questions about the effectiveness of the school board and the mayor in managing the town's finances, and has led to a decrease in trust in the local government. The residents of Blau are divided in their opinions on the matter, with some supporting the mayor and others backing the school board.

Carbone criticizes garage plan

North Dakota - Republican Senator John Carbone has introduced a bill to expand a local garage on the outskirts of the city. The existing garage is overcrowded and is unable to meet the needs of the growing population. Carbone's bill would allow for the expansion of the garage, providing more space for vehicles and reducing congestion.

However, the plan has been met with resistance from some residents, who argue that it would be an invasion of their property rights. Carbone has defended his bill, saying that it is necessary to meet the needs of the community and that the expansion would be done in a way that respects the rights of the residents.
