Drug problem: Let's not bury our heads in the sand

New York police have made the drug problem the focus of their attention, but much of the country is ignoring the issue. This is a terrible mistake. The harm caused by drugs is far greater than many people realize. The cost in terms of human suffering, economic loss, and crime is enormous. We must address this problem now before it gets out of control. Schools and communities must work together to educate young people about the dangers of drug use. Prevention is key, but we must also be prepared to respond to those who become addicted. This will require increased funding for treatment and rehabilitation programs. We cannot afford to ignore the drug problem any longer.

Caps restrict a school's ability to provide education

The use of uniforms and caps can limit the ability of schools to provide a well-rounded education. Uniforms, for example, can be seen as a sign of conformity and lack of individuality. Caps, which are often worn by students engaged in activities such as band or choir, can prevent them from participating fully in these programs. Furthermore, the cost of uniforms can be a burden for some families, especially those with limited resources. Schools should consider alternative approaches to maintaining school pride and discipline, such as Color Guard uniforms or other creative solutions, without sacrificing educational opportunities.

The danger on Route 208 exit

Dear Editor,

I am writing to express concern about the dangers of the Route 208 exit. The current setup with the traffic light is not ideal, and accidents frequently occur. It is time for a safer solution.

Kids who harass drivers

Newark police are cracking down on kids who harass drivers. The department is using creative strategies to address this issue, including setting up undercover teams to observe and report on such behavior. They have also been working with local schools to educate young people about the dangers of harassment and the importance of respecting others.

Thumbs Up

The Hewitt-Tamborello Memorial Library is offering a new program for children, which I think is fantastic. It will help them learn and grow.

Thumbs Down

The high cost of textbooks can be a burden on students and their families. It is time for publishers to take responsibility and make education more affordable.

Bringing order out this mad world's confusing mess

For the week of October 9

October is a month for looking back, for reviewing the events of the past year, the past decade, the past century. It's a time to think about the future, to plan for it, to shape it. It's a time to reflect, to assess what we've done, what we've learned, what we've achieved. It's a time to think about what we need to do, what we need to change, what we need to improve.

Mahwah loss was a moral victory for the Bears

North Arlington's 21-0 victory over South Orange was impressive, but the Bears' 17-14 loss to Mahwah on Saturday was a moral victory for the Bears.

The loss to Mahwah was a close game throughout, with the Bears holding a 14-10 lead going into the fourth quarter. Mahwah put up a spirited effort, but the Bears held on to win 17-14.

Senior running back Tim Smith ran for 111 yards and two touchdowns, while junior quarterback Mike Johnson threw for 171 yards and two touchdowns. The Bears' defense played well, holding Mahwah to just 140 yards of total offense.

Coach Bob O'Connell was pleased with the team's effort, despite the loss.

Pee Wee Cubs remain undefeated

The Pee Wee Cubs, led by coach John Smith, remain undefeated after a 28-0 victory over the Patriots on Saturday.

The Cubs' defense was dominant, holding the Patriots to just 55 yards of total offense. The offense was led by quarterback Mike Johnson, who threw for 145 yards and three touchdowns.

The Cubs are now 6-0 and will look to continue their streak against the Eagles next week.
