Why does the operator ask me to limit my Long Distance call to 5 minutes?

According to the operator, there are several reasons for this limitation:

1. Limited Time: The operator may only have a certain amount of time to talk to the person they are calling, and they need to end the call within the allotted time to proceed to the next call.
2. Recordkeeping: By setting a limit, the operator can keep track of the duration of each call, which helps in billing and calculating charges.
3. Call Quality: Setting a limit helps maintain the quality of the call by preventing long pauses and ensuring that calls are completed within a reasonable time.
4. System Efficiency: Limiting call duration ensures that the system remains efficient and responsive to other incoming calls.

Overall, these reasons are part of the standard operating procedure to ensure smooth and efficient call management.
